CARUSO BREAKS DOWN

Wild Disorder in Court as Prosecutor Asks for Severe Punishment.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—With Caruso, the great tenor, in tears and moaning aloud, with half the crowd in the court room blowing savagely and the other half, including policemen, applauding vigorously, Deputy Commissioner Mathot uttered a blistering arraignment of the disfigured prisoner in the Yorkville Police Court to-day. It was one of the most ferocious attacks ever heard in a court room in this city. Magistrate Baker will render his decision in the case late to-day.

Mathot's last words, cried out in the court room in a voice that was high and trembling, were: "A plea has been made to you, Your Honor, on behalf of this man's distinguished position. And another plea on behalf of his wife in Naples. But I make a plea that this man be punished, and ask you to consider my plea in the name of your mother, your wife, your sisters, your daughters, in the name of all our mothers and wives and daughters. I ask you to punish this miserable wretch. I ask you to set an example as a warning to all these panderers and sinful men, so that they may know that they cannot insult decent women in the city of New York."

The ended Mathot's speech, and there

WIFE GREETS PEARY; ROOSEVELT AT SYDNEY

POLE-SEEKING CRAFT IN PORT—MEMBERS OF PARTY ARE ALL WELL.

Special to the Boston American.

NORTH SYDNEY, N. S., Nov. 23.—In a drizzling southeast storm, at daybreak, Commander Robert Peary brought his pole-seeking steamer Roosevelt into port to-day. She was met by tug and the revenue cutter Gladstone. The Roosevelt anchored off the main street, and Commander Peary leaped ashore at the Sydney Hotel, where he was met at the plank by his wife.

Words of welcome there were none, but one said led her into the arms of his wife, who had been waiting for him for long years and half.

Mrs. Peary, who occupied a front room in the hotel, eyed her husband's ship creeping into port almost as soon as did the sailors on the tugs and revenue cutter. From a window in her room she waved him welcome, and the dauntless explorer saw her and waved a greeting back.

A. J. Quigley of New York, an old friend of the explorer, was the first man to welcome Commander Peary back to America. Commander Peary appeared to be entirely willing to talk of the voyage and his experiences.

"Suffer?" said he. "Oh, I didn't suffer. I've gained twenty pounds during the voyage. I am in first class health. I have not been in bed for two nights, but for that matter Captain Bartlett has not had his clothes off since July."

"Yes, it was a trying trip," he said, in answer to a question. "In fact, sometimes we did not know whether we would ever get back here with the ship, but here we are; we managed to pull through. All of my men are in good condition and overjoyed to be home."

BORDEN RESTORES OLD SCALE OF MILL WAGES

ADVANCE IS MORE THAN 10 PER CENT. TO IRON WORKS EMPLOYES.

Special to the Boston American.

FALL RIVER, Nov. 23.—The Iron Works Mills, owned by M. C. D. Borden of New York, the largest print mills in the world, posted a notice just before noon to-day announcing a full restoration of wages to the schedule paid prior to November, 1903.

The notice a raise of slightly more than 10 per cent. over the present schedule. In November, 1903, wages were cut 10 per cent.

The increase affects 4,000 operatives employed in the seven mills constituting the Iron Works plant.

M. C. D. Borden is not a member of the Manufacturers' Association, and his voluntary raise is entirely independent of what the association may do.

FREIGHT CAR FAMINE CAUSES MAINE LOSS

WATERVILLE, Me., Nov. 23.—Shippers here as well as at other points of the Maine Central are experiencing a freight car famine. This is the busiest season of the year for the pulp mills and thousands of dollars are being diverted to other sections through lack of cars, only one car, it is reported, being furnished for each ten required.

PRIEST COMPLAINS OF MOVING PICTURES

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 23.—Rev. Fr. Frank Craig complained to the Police Board yesterday that moving pictures offensive to decency and insulting to members of the Catholic Church were being exhibited at a local one-cent vaudeville place and they were confiscated by the police.

Fall River Manufacturers Grant Demands of Operatives for 10 Per Cent. Advance in Wages, Beginning Monday.

SPECIAL TO THE BOSTON AMERICAN.

FALL RIVER, Nov. 23—The Manufacturers' association at 12:30 granted 10 per cent. increase in wages demanded by their 25,000 employes. The increase goes into effect Monday morning.

After a conference to-day between the executive committee of the mill owners and Mayor Coughlin of this city, held in the latter's office, President N. B. Borden of the association and one of the largest manufacturers, said to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter:

"The conference is over. We have granted the demand of the operatives for 10 per cent. increase, and it will become operative next Monday."

Decision Quickly Reached.

The special meeting of the executive committee of the Manufacturers' Association took place at 9 o'clock in the association headquarters in the Pocasset block. Among those present were President M. B. Borden of the association, W. Frank Shove, David Brayton, J. E. Osborn, Secretary Clarence Hathaway. After the meeting the following interview took place between President Borden and a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter:

"Is your meeting over?"

"Yes."

"What was done?"

"I cannot say."

"Will there be something to say to-day?"

"Well, sometime."

"When?"

"I cannot say."

"Is nothing warrant granting that other 5 per cent?"

"That's too much to ask me now."

"Will you meet again to-day?"

"I can't say when we will meet. Of course, there will be something to say, but I can't tell anything now."

COUNCIL ACCEPTS VOTE.

The textile council, composed of three delegates from each of the five unions, held a brief meeting at the close of the special session, called simply to hear the result of the meetings and to accept the vote to strike.

At the close of this session President James Tansey said to a BOSTON AMERICAN representative:

"I hope the manufacturers will see the wisdom of changing their minds before Monday morning.

"There seems to be no power on earth to stop these people from going out on a strike if the 10 per cent. increase they ask for is not granted."

MAYOR TRIES ARBITRATION.

When it was announced early in the day that the manufacturers would not accede to the rate demanded and that they would only give a 5 per cent. increase, Mayor Coughlin asked that the representatives of the operatives and the manufacturers meet him separately, to see if he might be able to arbitrate and straighten out the tangle. The secretaries of the unions responded first and stated plainly to the Mayor that the operatives would accept nothing but a rate wage of a straight 10 per cent. increase.

Mayor Coughlin then conferred with the manufacturers. The mill owners said that an increase of ten per cent. at this time was impossible, as business would not warrant raising wages, but they were willing to grant five per cent. additional. However, the manufacturers stated, in order to avert a strike at this time, the owners would agree to grant an increase of five per cent additional in February, provided the market was in a condition to warrant such action.

The demand for a 10 per cent. advance was made about three weeks ago. The Textile Council set forth in its request that in view of the prosperous condition of the textile industry wages should be restored to the schedule paid operators to the reductions which were begun in 1903 and which amounted to 22½ per cent.

Last spring a partial restoration was made, bringing the price of weaving standard 28-inch 64 by 64 cloth cutting to 10.85 cents per cut. The price paid in 1903 was 21.78, the amount now asked for.

24 YEARS IN PRISON, SLAYER IS PARDONED

After twenty-four years behind the cold gray walls of the Charlestown State Prison, Joseph St. John, convicted murderer, was freed to-day.

Soon after eleven o'clock this forenoon a messenger entered the prison office of Warden Bridges with a pardon from Lieut.-Gov. Draper, the Governor being absent from the State. And then the warden performed one of the few pleasant little duties that falls to his lot.

When he entered the room St. John was at work, bent over a table, outwardly absorbed in his occupation as he has been for twenty-four years.

"St. John," said Warden Bridges, gladly, "the Lieutenant-Governor has signed your pardon and you are a free man."

St. John took the news quietly, and overjoyed at the prospect of immediate release. He took off his prison clothes and donned a neat black suit, and bidding farewell to the guards, who had known him for so long, passed out into the world.

Found Companion Slain.

To a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter who met him at the gate, St. John said: "I'm mighty glad to be free again, and I'll prove to my future life that I appreciate my liberty."

St. John was convicted of murder in 1882 for killing Under A. Varney while they were working together on a farm in the town of Sutton, Worcester County. At the time St. John was but seventeen years of age. St. John and Varney had gone on a spill in a meadow of the farm and had mowed some miles away. It was said that Varney had $17.50 in his pocket when they left the farm.

POLICYHOLDERS UNFAIRLY USED, SAYS MALONE

Asks Injunction Against American Fire Co. Be Made Permanent.

COURT ORDERS MASTER

Judge Morton of the Supreme Court today heard the arguments in the case of the American Fire Insurance Company of Boston against which the court granted a temporary injunction on the days of restraining it from transacting business in Massachusetts. Acting at the instance of State Insurance Commissioner George H. Utting, Attorney-General Daniel Malone filed information against the company and appeared before Judge Morton today in the interests of the government asking that the injunction be made permanent and a receiver appointed. Ex-Governor Parker was the counsel for the company.

Judge Morton decided to have the issue heard by a Master immediately, and took under consideration the petition enjoining the company from paying out any money in settlement of claims which have been adjudicated.

Malone Flays Company.

"The company is not dealing fair and square with its policyholders; it is insolvent, as the insurance commissioner has declared after a two weeks' investigation just ended, and is only seeking in the courts to allow the company to continue doing a receiver should be appointed," declared Attorney-General Daniel Malone. "They have been settling claims put in at San Francisco at the rate of forty cents on the dollar, although they first represented that April 18th they could pay in full on all losses.

Frisco Loss, $300,000.

"Th company's enrolled loss of $300,000 in the Frisco disaster, and owing to complaints made to the Insurance Commissioner by policyholders, the Insurance Commissioner made his examination and recommendation for a receiver. To allow them to continue or make any more settlements is unfair to other policyholders who have refused to accept forty cents on the dollar when the Insurance Commissioner believes the company should pay dollar for dollar, or at least not less than seventy-five cents on the dollar.

"Th company employs a suite of offices at No. 50 Kilby street, Boston. Formerly is the president of the company which is capitalized at $500,000. Henry S. Hosg is the secretary and treasurer, and both are directors as well as E. Rollins Morse, Gorham Rogers, A. M. Bullard, S. E. Peabody and W. C. Endicott.

The company has written millions of dollars' worth of business since its incorporation in 1818, but practically not a dollar's worth since the San Francisco fire.

SAFE BLOWERS GET $1100 AT POSTOFFICE

NATICK, R. I., Nov. 23.—Three safeblowers who entered the postoffice here got $800 in cash and stamps and escaped. Superintendent McFadden and Chief Black Mills, who lives, opposite the postoffice, looked out of his window and saw three men running for the woods in the rear of the postoffice.

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 23.—The same gang of yeggmen that has been robbing postoffices in Vermont and eastern New York, cracked open the safe at Hoosick Falls postoffice, getting something over $550, about $400 of which was in cash.

The robbers failed to wreck the inside of the vault, which contained about $2,000 or $4,000 in stamps. The work was that of expert crackmen. No clue has developed that there were three or four in the party.

TOM JOHNSON'S SON ELOPED

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Loftin E. Johnson, only son of Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland, was secretly married August 21 last to Miss Emma Elizabeth Hafner, daughter of one of the wealthiest men in West Natick, N. J., according to an automobile ride along the Hudson at Tarrytown, N. Y.

The marriage became known yesterday when Rev. Clarke Wright filed the record with the Bureau of Vital Statistics.

When asked about the wedding the mayor quoted Johnson as saying:

"Loftin and his wife motored yesterday morning to the Hudson this morning and decided to start off. Keep it the latest all through life. So if you'll marry us just as we are we'll be awfully obliged."

NEGRO DESPERADO AT BAY AGAIN IN WOODS

FRANCIS SURPRISED NEAR BELFAST WHILE COOKING FOOD HE HAD STOLEN

BELFAST, Me., Nov. 23.—After an all-night pursuit Warden Norton and Sheriff Drake of Frankfort, with a strong posse, today expect to capture Minot St. Clair Francis, the escaped negro convict, within a few hours.

Tracked all night by the shoe prints he left in the sand, Francis was found making for Monroe, with six passengers less than twenty hours behind him. The sheriff in pursuit in addition the horse and wagon he stole from Lewis Hall, a farmer living near Winterport, where he had been almost captured, attempted to steal a horse and wagon from the farm of Charles Bowden last night, but was surprised and frightened away.

Francis was surprised while cooking some food he had stolen. A fire which he had made in the woods was traced by his smoke by a posse. Word was quickly passed and Sheriff Drake started out alone for the maniac negro.

Escapes in Time.

Fearless of the consequences, he worked his way quietly into the woods. But Francis, warned by the lightning noise by the terror he is in, heard Drake approaching and escaped in time.

After going into the woods for an eighth of a mile, Sheriff Drake espied a thin curling fire, around which was some food which Francis had been cooking. Hitched to a tree was the horse which Francis had stolen from Lewis Hall, a farmer living on Tuesday.

The negro had been so close to capture that he had no time to unhitch the horse and wagon. He left them, and, taking what food he could in the time, escaped.

Drake has been so close to capture that he had no time to unhitch the horse and wagon. He left them, and, taking what food he could in the time, escaped.

Cannot Go It on Foot.

Without a horse it is not believed that Francis can lead the chase much longer. His feet are badly cut and swollen, he cannot wear shoes, and the roads are in bad shape, a mass of broken mush, frozen by the cold wave of last night.

The patch of woods wherein the man is now hiding is not large compared with others he has eluded himself in, and the police say that he cannot possibly get away in daylight. His only chance lay in breaking by the cordon of guards last night.

Francis's trail has been marked by many breaks into farm houses and stores. His last attempt was to get a better horse to take the place of one he was so suddenly forced to abandon, but he was unsuccessful, the horse being such a vicious one that he could not handle it.

Found Horse and Wagon.

Frank Bowden, who lives a mile from Monroe village, found that a buggy was missing from his stable. Thinking of Francis, he armed himself and made a thorough search of the premises.

Then Mr. Bowden made the discovery that one of his horses had been set loose. The animal has a reputation for speed and for vicousness. Mr. Bowden is of the opinion that Francis made an attempt to steal the horse and was obliged to abandon the effort on account of the horse's temper.

James Wormley, who works on the Bowden farm, heard the disturbance, and running to the stable saw a man disappearing in the bushes. Whoever it was paid no attention to his challenge and fired two shots, when stroked neither report nor outcry.

Left Food Behind.

An examination of the wagon which was stolen from Frank Bowden, which was found later some distance from the barn gave another unmistakable clue to the fugitive, for in it we found a knife and fork, which had been stolen by some of the cottagers at Saint Point; also a quantity of cooked oats and macaroons which had evidently come from the same place.

In his haste to abandon the stolen wagon Francis has left behind the last weapon which he was known to possess. This weapon was found strewn on the floor of Moody's house in the village of Monroe, where it was stolen by Francis during a visit to the rear Mr. Lawrence L. Shepherd's store last Saturday night. Francis gifted the owners will the corn, feed and other things he stole to obtain food.

2 GIRLS WHO STOLE CLOTHES GO TO PRISON

Charged with the larceny of clothing from the rooms of Miss Annie Donlon and Miss Delia Darcey in the home of John Norton, Washington street, Newton Lower Falls, Edna May Hoxie, the pretty eighteen-year-old daughter of Charles Hoxie of Lawrence, and Fanny Pratt, aged twenty, were to-day sent to the women's prison at Sherborn by Judge Kennedy of the Newton Police Court.

Miss Hoxie pleaded guilty, but Fanny Pratt maintained that she was innocent. Miss Pratt's paint would for clemency, but the Judge said that guilt was too apparent in her case to do anything but pass sentence.

Edna Hoxie, who has been missing from her home for three weeks, together with Fanny Pratt, rented a room of Mr. Norton last Monday. They said they had just got work in the neighborhood. The next morning they disappeared, as did a quantity of clothing and other articles from the rooms of Miss Donlon and Miss Darcy.

Edna was arrested in Natick yesterday, and was wearing a skirt, shirtwaist, gloves, stockings and a hat pin which were identified as having been among the stolen property. Fanny Pratt was arrested this morning early in Canton.

Both of the young women were overcome by grief in court today, and they could hardly command their voices while they told the story of their crimes. Two weeks ago Edna Houle left Lawrence, stating that she was going to the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Josephine Houle in South Framingham. She did not go there, but went to Newton, where she secured a position as governess in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jennings, of Channing street. She soon rejoined Miss Pratt.

SECOND DEGREE PLEA OF GUILTY BY GILLETTE?

DEFENCE, FEARING CONVICTION, MAY URGE THIS—DEATH BOAT IN COURT.

HERKIMER, N. Y., Nov. 23.—Worn out with the warp and woof of circumstances that all point toward guilty, the strength of the State's case against Chester E. Gillette, on trial for the murder of Grace Brown, may force the defense to interpose a plea of murder in the second degree. Report had it early to-day that counsel for Gillette had seriously considered such a course, offering to plead guilty for a lesser degree of murder be accepted. It is doubtful if the District Attorney would consent to accept once a plea at this time.

Gillette is guilty and we have proved it," said District Attorney Ward to-day. Medical testimony will be produced to show that Grace Brown was either dead or practically so before her body was thrown into the water. Her head was fearfully battered and crushed, which was testified to to-day by those who brought the body to the surface of Big Moose Lake, and by physicians who performed the autopsy.

"Struck with Tennis Racquet."

There were hemorrhages in the brain, and these could not have been caused by blows administered while the girl was living. District Attorney Ward will tell the jury that Gillette struck her several times over the head while in the boat with a tennis racquet and then threw overboard. The racquet, with the girl's blood upon it, if from the force of a blow, was found later in Fourth Woods Brook, which Gillette passed on his way to Eagle Bay after the girl's body was found.

Should counsel for Gillette elect to put in a defense and not ask for the accept-

DIVORCED WIFE, REWED, TO SUE FOR ALIMONY

Separation and Remarriage of Couple Made Known by Court Action.

$450 AMOUNT INVOLVED

Determined to compel her former husband, Captain Charles E. Pye, at one time in command of the Plant line steamship Halifax, to pay her the amount ordered by the courts at the time of their divorce, Mrs. Mary Jane Hall of Cambridge declares that she will prosecute him to the end.

By the proceedings instituted by Mrs. Hall, in which she secured execution for $450 in the equity merit session of the Superior Court from Judge Fox, there has been brought to-day to light the divorce and remarriage of both husband and wife.

Mrs. Pye that she was the wife of Dr. William Hall of No. 88 Hancock street, Cambridge, while Captain Pye married Mrs. Blanche Pierce, divorced wife of a dancing master. To Mrs. Pye was given the custody of the three children.

Pye Says He Is Destitute.

Captain Pye has not appeared in court. He has been represented by counsel, who told the court that the captain was in destitute circumstances and unable to pay the alimony, as he had not obtained a berth as commander since the merging of the Plant line with the Halifax line.

Lawyer Doggett, for Captain Pye, succeeded in having Judge Fox set next Monday for a hearing on the motion that the payment of $450 alimony be ordered by the court.

In the meantime, attorneys for Mrs. Pye-Hall say that they have been unable to locate Captain Pye at his former home, however, says that she knows that he is living in Cambridge.

Mrs. Pye Hall is a beautiful woman, with a fine figure, deep black eyes and black hair. She looks to be not more than thirty-five years of age.

She was married to Captain Pye, who is well known in shipping circles, at Halifax, May 10, 1886. Mrs. Pye was very young. As Captain Pye made many trips in his ship between Halifax and Boston, his wife was a constant visitor to this city.

Met Dr. Hall on Boat.

It so happened that her present husband, Dr. Hall, in his capacity of physician employed by the British government to care for British sailors who might be taken ill at this port, frequently came aboard the Halifax, and met both Captain and Mrs. Pye.

The Pyes had three children. Husband and wife separated in the late nineties, and in 1901 Mrs. Pye brought suit for divorce. The decree nisi was made absolute on August 10 of that year, and Mrs. Pye was given $65 a month for the support of her children. In the following December the amount was reduced to $50 a month.

In two years and nine months Mrs. Pye-Hall says that she has not received a cent of alimony.

"I have remained silent fearing the publicity that would ensue and which I dreaded," said Mrs. Pye-Hall to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter, "but I am now determined that I will expose Captain Pye to the world for his shameful treatment of me and my children.

Divorce for Desertion.

"I had hardly obtained my divorce from him before he married another woman. I obtained my divorce on the grounds of desertion. When the case was tried it was kept silent and has been ever since. They offered me $1,500 to keep quiet.

"Following my divorce and his remarriage he was able to give his present wife several hundred dollars worth of diamonds and jewelry, and still his lawyer declares he is unable to pay any alimony. He has been residing on Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, with his wife.

"When he found that I was bringing this action he promptly removed to Broadway in Cambridge. He was able to pay rent of $42 per week and otherwise support himself and his wife in modern fashion, yet he declares he cannot contribute to the support of his children."

OIL TRUST GIVES UP BIG CHECK FOR LAND FOR WHICH MACHINIST PAID $250.

Special to the Boston American.

BEVERLY, Nov. 23.—Theodore E. Davis, a machinist in the United Shoe Machinery Company's plant at $15 a week, to-day deposited a check for $250,000 to his own credit in a local bank, the check having been sent to him by the Standard Oil Company for land which he bought 12 years ago for $250.

To-day, for the first time since he came here five months ago, he is not working on a week day. He has given up his place here, and is preparing to take his wife and two-months' old baby girl to his old home in Nashville, Tenn. Later he will go abroad for pleasure.

Land a Burden to Him.

Davis is thirty-six years old and lives in a small cottage at No. 78 Mackay street. In 1884 he was knocking about in the West, a single man. He secured a piece of land in Frankfort, Ind., taking a mortgage to pay it. He did nothing with it later but pay taxes on it. He tried unsuccessfully not given the dealership, but the necessity to get rid of it. He enlisted with A company, 13th U. S. Regulars, in the Spanish war, fought at San Juan and other battles, was shot three times and was honorably discharged.

Five years ago he paid taxes on the land and again tried to get rid of it. He wanted the widow of the farmer from whom he bought it to take it back, but she didn't want it.

Meanwhile, the Standard Oil Company had been trying vainly to find Davis. It wanted the land. Five months ago, when he came here, Davis, in much disgust, paid five years' back taxes on the land. Then the Standard secured trace of him. He received a letter from the oil company asking him to sell.

Accepts Big Offer.

Davis wrote to an Indiana lawyer to look into the matter. The lawyer from the oil company had gone ahead sinking oil wells on the land. Oil was being taken out. The lawyer secured an offer of $250,000 cash for the property, which Davis accepted. Wednesday the check came. Yesterday he put it in the bank.

Pabst Beer Most Popular

American People Appreciate Clean Wholesome Beverage.

With the increased consumption of beer the public is becoming more and more discriminating. Once upon a time beer was beer, but now we are becoming very particular what we drink in the way of beer. Each brewer makes his own particular brand or brands, each with its own particular flavor, color and other marked characteristics. While the process of brewing is the same in general it is not at all the same in particulars.

In this it may be well to know that Pabst is recognized in this country and abroad as the pioneer in perfecting the cleanest process for bottled beer as well as for the draught. The science of brewing it was Pabst who first recognized not given the dealership, but the necessity of absolute cleanliness in brewing, cooling and aging beer. Today he leads in the cleanliness of his process. Pabst Beer is not cooled in open rooms where men walk in and out, but in sealed coolers where only filtered air can reach it. Pabst Beer is not aged in open vats, but in sealed tanks, where science shows it perfect in age, purity and strength.

Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is always exactly the same. The exquisite flavor never changes, because Pabst yeast with which Pabst beer is fermented is always grown from the original mother cell in Pasteur tubes and flasks, where there is not the slightest chance for outside contamination. It is always made from Pabst exclusive 8-day malt grown under the watchful eye of trained scientists, who make it just the same and just right every time. Only the choicest imported hops are used, thus it is rich in tonic properties. It never leaves the brewery until fully aged and perfect in purity and strength—the choicest beer brewed.

This it is in these days of discrimination Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is the most popular beer with the doctors and the people, who value its richness and its cleanliness.

JAM TREMONT TEMPLE WHEN GYPSY SPEAKS

No great were the crowds which thronged to hear Gypsy Smith, in Tremont Temple, to-day, that after 12 o'clock it was necessary for the ushers to rope the entrances to all but the topmost gallery, which was also filled to the doorsills. Speaking to the multitudes about "Heaven," Gypsy Smith said:

"I wouldn't be Heaven to me to sit on a golden throne and listen on a harp. It is Heaven to me to help and serve humanity right down here. Some one said to me the other day, 'Brother Smith, what a lot of jewels you'll have in your crown.' I don't care whether I have a crown or not.

"Heaven and all it means is for those who get right with God. Heaven is for the people who are like God on earth. Oh, brother, you'll have to have a bigger heart in you or you'll never get to the heaven up yonder.

Must Imitate Christ.

"Yes, it is true that if Boston were lifted just as it is and taken through the gates of pearl and put down at the steps of the throne, heaven would cease, and Boston would be. There is no heaven for you or for me without the great change from darkness to light. Going South to God You mustn't dismiss what heaven is like; you won't get there unless you have heaven in your souls. You must be as little children to get through the narrow gateway.

"Singing songs about wanting to be an angel and all such nonsense won't get you to Heaven unless you become like Christ. When Jesus Christ comes to fill out your soul it will be as beautiful as a Spring day, then you'll have Heaven as much as you can hold.

"I believe God is here and that Heaven you imagine away off up among the stars would be hell if God were not there.

Know Eeternal Life.

"Sit in the twilight of that truth and you will have in your soul the baby joy that will grow and grow and pulsate with the ages. To know Him is eternal life. You may know everything else, but if you don't know Him you are a fool. You may put a big dash in the world and go out of it, in a flower-decked coffin, with national honors, but unless you have known God it is all worthless.

"Men and women of Boston, these crowds of you here are an indictment that you are hungry for God.

"Let us pray. Let all heads be bowed. I dare not close without asking all those who are hungry for God to commit yourselves to Him here and now."

Tomorrow at 10:30 there will be a meeting for children ranging in ages from ten to eighteen.

SAYS PRIDE, NOT TRUSTS, RAISES PRICES

Government Statistician Says Common People Now Demand Best and Want It Sent.

HAVE TO PAY THE FREIGHT

By Boston American Leased Wire.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Pride and vanity, rather than the operations of the trusts, are responsible for the increase in the cost of raw products as manufactured are the cause for the present high prices of food stuffs, according to Dr. E. F. Ladd, the agricultural statistician, remarks interesting, although somewhat startling, coming from a government official, but Dr. Ladd is one who is not afraid to say what he thinks, even if he says something unpopular, as he said.

"The workingman demands the finest cuts of meats, and he buys better meat perhaps than the salaries of professional men. He does not confine that to the shin-bone dog-trade of former years.

"He has a feeling that he is as good as anybody else, and this feeling itself is his purchasing power.

"Then, remember the time when a man who wanted to buy a steak threw his lapel over his arm and went to the butcher's after it. But he won't carry a bundle now, and much more will be sent than used. That is pride.

"It is safe to estimate that it costs five cents a steak for every cut that is sold-from the butcher to the consumer pays for freight.

"The same is true with other commodities of every day necessity. A man whose food is delivered to him by the grocer pays for the grocer pays for the freight."

CLERGY IN HORROR AT BOMB OUTRAGE

BALTIMORE, Nov. 23.—At the annual meeting of the alumni of St. Mary's Seminary yesterday, a dispatch to Pope Pius X telling of their horror at the bomb outrage in St. Peter's and offering prayers for his welfare. It is signed by Cardinal Gibbons and ten others of the clergy and alumni.

Catarrh of the Stomach

A Pleasant, Simple, But Safe and Effectual Cure for It.

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing, headaches, feckle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling. There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue, and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a sllay, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do, and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr Harlanson, the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. R. S. Workman, Chicago, Ills., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion. Catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

UNION LABOR MAY HAVE MAN FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Coughlan's Withdrawal Likely to Be Followed by Action by the Central Body.

With organized labor, through the withdrawal of David X. Coughlan, is left without any candidate for the Boston School Board in to-night's Democratic city convention, steps will be taken at the next meeting of the Central Labor Union which may result in the independent candidacy of some recognized labor man. Henry Abrahams, whose name was suggested when Mr. Coughlan announced his withdrawal yesterday, is eliminated from consideration, being a resident of Chelsea.

Major Fitzgerald, when informed of Coughlan's withdrawal said with great positiveness:

"David A. Ellis of the present board will be nominated by the Democrats to-night. I myself suggested Henry Abrahams some time ago as the man to fill the bill, he being well organized labor man and a resident of Chelsea. I learned that he was a resident of Chelsea.

Mr. Coughlan, president of Boston Typographical Union No. 13, in announcing his reasons for withdrawing as a candidate, gave out the following statement of Mayor:

"Because of the interference of the Mayor of Boston in the nomination of a candidate for School Committee and the exercise of the powers of his position through recognition of ward leaders and delegates. I have determined to withdraw as a candidate for the School Board at the Democratic city convention.

Calls Mayor Dictator.

"I do this in the interest of the movement which I represent as such candidate by having the power exercised by a chief executive who assumes to be the dictator of the slate of candidates and policies, in his interference in the selection of a candidate for the Boston School Board he has exceeded the powers vested in his position.

"The independent movement stands for no class—in no religion.

"I am prompted to take this stand so that the convention may protect some wage-earner other than myself, and thereby give the delegates opportunity to demonstrate to the public that the Democratic party in reality is in sympathy with the people.

Denies O'Connell Story.

"I also want to deny the reports that I intended to draw a revolver on Mr. 'Dan' O'Connell during a recent conversation with him, as reported. Mr. O'Connell told me that the delegates from Ward 20 would not support me in the convention because I did not support his brother Joseph for Congress. That ended the interview."

The name of Mrs. Julia E. Duff will be presented to the convention, and this will lead to even more complications, it is believed.

Ex-Congressman Joseph A. Conry will be the chairman of the meeting. Last year Mr. Conry was one of the leaders against the Fitzgerald machine, and his working as presiding officer of the convention comes as somewhat of a surprise.

While the delegates are assembled in the "Cradle of Liberty," the Republicans will hold their convention in Faneuil Hall on Boylston street. In this convention the renomination of Mr. Ellis is assured. Representative Walter A. Webster of Ward 22 will preside.

WANTS NURSES FOR SCHOOLS

Owing to the steady increase of the percentage of pupils affected with diseases of various kinds in the public schools, a movement has been made by the Boston School Committee to install a trained nurse in each school district throughout the city.

When the Legislature meets in January the School Committee will ask for an appropriation sufficient for this purpose. The plan is that a nurse shall be appointed in each district. That she will examine the pupils and then visit the parents, impressing upon them the serious condition of children afflicted with infectant and contagious diseases, and urge that the children should be given medical care at once. In case of accidents in the play ground or school room the nurse will attend to the injured.

James J. Storrow, chairman of the School Board, warmly advocates the proposed plan. To a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter he said:

"At the present time each child in the Boston public schools costs the city from $54 to $35 per year, outside the cost of the school houses and land. If that above money is spent for the mental obsertion of a child, it seems only fair to ask that 40 or 50 cents a year be expended for the physical betterment of that child, so that it all it would amount to. There are about ninety thousand school children in Boston and 40 or 50 cents for each would defray the expense of hiring a trained nurse for each school district.

"At the present time there is a board of doctors appointed by the Board of Health, who examine the children and make monthly reports. But the result of the visit is in the homes of the children, and a nurse who had for her specific duty the care of the child's health would visit and revisit the home until she succeeded in getting the parents to properly attend to the child."

KNEELAND IN TRUSTS' WAY

Because he voted in favor of the city owning its own lighting plant, Alderman Kneeland declared before Machinists' Lodge No. 264 last night that the gas and electric lighting interests, aided by other corporations, worked against his renomination for the primaries.

He charged that the corporations at the last city primaries followed out their usual program, to do all in their power to bring about the defeat of those candidates opposed to their interests.

"My own particular case," said the speaker, "shows that the gas and electric lighting interests got the other corporations interested and decided that I should no longer be a stumbling block in their way."

PARDON SLAYER AFTER 24 YEARS

Joseph St. John, convicted of murder in 1882, walked from the State prison to-day a free man on papers signed by Lieutenant Governor Draper, who is acting chief executive in the absence of Governor Guild. St. John was sentenced to imprisonment for life for the killing of Peter J. Varney. The contention is that Varney and St. John were both in a state of intoxication at the time of the crime, which resulted from a quarrel over a five-dollar bill belonging to St. John.

St. John shot Varney with a revolver, and then fled. It was a week before the body was found, in a position indicating that he had concealed it. He alleges that he has no recollection of what transpired after the shot was fired.

St. John agreed to leave for the West, and starts to-day.

Fighting with all her strength, Mrs. J. H. Currier last night rescued Mary Cody, five years old, of No. 114 Gardner street, Newton, from a kidnapper. Though of slight build, she put up such a vigorous fight that she would-be kidnapper made his way off in the darkness, and the police are now hunting for him.

The child was crossing Walton Park when a stranger man called to her. She did not reply, but with a scream ran on through the park. The man followed, grabbed her in his arms. Mrs. Currier heard the child's screams, ran after the man. She aimed blows upon his head so that he was glad to let go of the little one and make off in the direction of the railroad tracks.

They left the town from Providence.

The bride is twenty years old, very pretty and talented. Her husband is but twenty-one and is a painter by trade.

Mr. Downs, when informed of his daughter's runaway marriage today, said: "I wish that I might have performed the ceremony; that's all. He was once pastor of the Bowdoin Square Baptist Church, Boston, and twenty years ago flirted frequently in a famous court trial. He is now in the real estate business.

FRENCH PROBE SHOWS GERMAN LINER AT FAULT

CHERBOURG, France, Nov. 23.—The preliminary investigation by the captain of the port into the collision Wednesday night between the North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse and the British Royal Mail steamer Orinoco seems to prove that the former vessel should have heeded the Orinoco's signal that she was going to starboard of the German ship.

The second and third class passengers of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse will be sent to New York by a special steamer now on the way here from Bremen.

SEEK BODY IN FIRE RUINS

STOUGHTON, Nov. 23.—Search was made to-day of the ruins of the Streeter school building, now used by the Plymouth Rubber Company as a storehouse, which was destroyed by a fire early to-day, for the body of a man who was supposed to have lost his life in the flames.

The blaze entailed a loss of about $6,000 on building and stock, and on account of a high wind aid was summoned from Canton and other outlying town to keep the flames from spreading. The cause of the fire was not known.

A. F. L. DELEGATES WOULD PROBE PUBLIC PRINTING

By Frank K. Foster.
Special to the Boston American.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 23.—The delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention listened several hours yesterday to a tariff debate, principally between the representatives of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers upon the one hand and delegates from the Amalgamated Iron and Sheet Iron Workers on the other. The men of the first named industry are fighting the open shop policy of the Steel Trust, and asked legislation which shall resist in its penal law the tariff law on steel products.

The committee on resolutions turned down the request on the ground that the tariff was a purely political issue, upon which the delegates should not be asked to pass judgment. By a vote of two to one the convention declined jurisdiction.

Incidentally a thorough discussion of the attitude of the federation towards the tariff was taken part in by many delegates. It was pointed out that in 1882 a plank in the platform of the American Federation of Labor, giving a quasi-indorsement of the protective tariff idea, was stricken out, and since that time the association has been non-committal, and that if the lines were to be further drawn at all there would be no end to the confusion which might arise.

To Probe Public Printing.

The printers, bookbinders and pressmen ask the executive council to investigate the general policy of Public Printer Stillings toward the employes of the office, and recommend that "Heads of departments removed from positions by reason of refusal to stultify themselves by aiding in such methods be offered every aid possible by the American Federation of Labor."

Back of this resolution is a suspicion on the part of trades unionists that the proposed weeding out process is a ruse to cover the discharge of the union employes, for the order of Mr. Stillings directs the foremen and chiefs of departments in the Government printing offices to prepare lists of employes whose services can be dispensed with, basing their finding on the efficiency, character, departmental, health and cleanliness, attendance, length of service, future desirability and special defects of the men in question.

This order the resolution avers tends to "humiliate" the employes of the office and will bring dissatisfaction, discord and disorganization among them, results prejudicial to the best interests and efficiency of the Government printing office. It also says the resolution tends to prejudice the standard and independence of an American citizen.

The labor editors, of whom there are a dozen or fifteen in the convention, had a talk fest yesterday over a resolution which calls upon the various affiliated unions of the federation to support the trades union papers of the country.

Delegate Lewis declared that the trades union suffered more in the business for what there was in it and not from any devotion to the union cause, and deserves no more support than any other union printshop. H. Berry Brown, himself the editor of a labor paper in Brooklyn, took prompt issue with Lewis. He said:

"It is not the man who goes into trades unionism for what he can get out of it who is its greatest sustenance. It is self sacrifice and not selfishness that moves the world, and this self sacrifice in the labor movement has not been borne contentiously when that is by the editors of the labor papers. I resent the charge that no union ever edited a labor paper except for what there is in it. I am surprised that he could come here and make such remarks without a dozen men rise to hurl back the brick of criticism at his head."

Condemn Hiring Armed Guards.

A declaration couched in strong terms was adopted condemning the hiring of private bodies of armed men to take the aggressive against union men in case of strike. Many instances were cited of gross outrages perpetrated by these Baldinis. The long and bitter jurisdictional contest between the brewery workmen and the teamsters, stationary firemen and engineers was threshed over for three hours yesterday, and to be resumed to-day.

The British fraternal delegates were presented testimonials of esteem by the delegates and last night were tendered a complimentary banquet by the American ex-Fraternal Delegates' Association and members of the executive council.

Minneapolis hospitality has shown itself in a new wrinkle, that of furnishing medical aid gratuitously for delegates who have been taken ill. The election of the old board of officers seems assured without a contest.

The announcement is made that President Gompers has entered into a contract with a Minneapolis publishing house to write a comprehensive history of the American labor movement, to make five or six volumes.

The yacht went ashore on the night of Nov. 20 during a northeasterly gale, and all was believed until the yacht was discovered on the beach yesterday morning. Mr. Bigelow, who was acting as sailing master, and the two men were rescued by life savers.

REPUBLICAN DEAL TO ELECT SIX ALDERMEN

Combination Reasonably Sure of That Number and May Get Seven.

AFTER CONTROL OF BOARD

A combination has been effected among the Republican candidates for the Board of Aldermen to elect at least six, and if possible seven, of their number to the board of 1907.

The city decided upon by the many leaders and agreed to by the candidates themselves are Alderman Francis E. Bangs, William Baylis, George H. Bittle, Tilton E. Bell and Charles M. Bragg, and Alderman Louis Clark of Dorchester. William S. Kinney of Ward 10, Charles H. Innes's candidate, will be all probability be the seventh member of the combination. If the plans are successful, which is not beyond the range of possibility with thirteen regulars and nearly a score of independent Democrats to divide the vote of that party, the Republicans will control next year's board.

Councilman John E. Crosk of Ward 22 and Edward M. Richardson of Ward 25, both of whom are regular nominees, have been considered for the combination, and while the name of each may replace Kinney on the ticket in the future words of such Kinney will undoubtedly be the machine candidate in all the other wards.

Bangs, Bell, Clark and Kinney, it is understood, will have the endorsement of the Good Government Association. There was some doubt at first whether Baylis would be included in the combination, but he made himself solid Monday by sticking by his colleagues in the board in refusing to give the voters a chance to pass on the municipal lighting question.

DODGE-SPEAR COMPANY BUYS OUT OLD FIRM

For $50,000 the Dodge-Spear Company has purchased the entire stock of Miner & Real, who for nearly forty-five years have been among the foremost of Boston's leading manufacturers of men's clothing.

Miner & Real have retired from business. Their stock is being transferred to-day from their big store at Summer and Chauncey street to that of the Dodge-Spear Company, No. 667-617 Washington street.

George A. Miner and Leander Real began business together in 1862. Five years ago George A. Miner retired from the firm, and his place was taken by his brother, S. H. C. Miner. While Leander Real did not retire, most of his great responsibilities have been transferred in recent years by his son, H. L. Real.

Weathered War Times.

The eminent reputation of the old firm has been familiar wherever good clothing is worn. About the time Richmond fell Miner & Real had a large, new store on Hanover street. Dreaded demoralization of trade and shrinking of values made the stoutest hearts quail. For Miner & Real the situation was particularly trying. The firm had just assumed a long lease and largely augmented expenses.

Fortunately for them, delay in finishing the new store had caused postponement of repairmen, for the coming season, and so Miner & Real weathered the storm. They had only a small stock of goods on hand at the close of the war.

Follow Vigorous Policy.

Something must be done or customers would be lost. Besides, merchandise had fallen to very low prices. A vigorous policy was inaugurated. Large and quick sales followed. An extraordinary large demand for clothing by Government agencies largely increased the business, and so the house of Miner & Real became one of the largest and most prosperous in the city.

Unprompted success attended all succeeding operations. At the time of the great fire in 1872 Miner & Real took rank one of the leading houses in its own branch of trade in New England, and, indeed, in the United States.

The great fire burned Miner & Real, but it did not long interfere with their business. Mr. Miner was one of the first members of the Boston Merchants' Association.

To Miner & Real's customers this notice was always hosted wonderingly.

"Never mind, we should say, and feel that he is part of the firm and not merely a hired man. He spent as much time over the business as though he owned it, and feel that if in any way they suspected his work the business would suffer."

CARUSO SOBS AND MOANS UNDER SCATHING ATTACK

CARUSO CONFRONTED BY WOMAN IN WHITE. Sketch illustrating the most dramatic moment in the hearing, when the tenor was suddenly asked if he recognized the mysterious woman.

Veiled Woman in White, Whose Name the Prosecution Declined to Reveal.

Prosecutor Calls for Punishment of Famous Tenor as Court Audience Hisses.

arose wild outbursts and applause on top of that loud cheering.

But still a large element in the crowd were glaring at Mathot angrily, and hissing till the veins stood out on the foreheads of their angry faces. For Mathot had, at one stage of his remarkable address, turned fiercely on the crowded courtroom and let fairly yelled:

"They ask us why Hannah Graham is not here; why the great police force of New York could not get her. I will tell you the reason. Because no decent woman, if she possibly could escape it, could be brought into such a room as this is now. She knew that this courtroom would be crowded as it is now with a lot of perverted dogs."

Mathot at the same time shook his fist at the audience.

Cries of "Shut up!" "Stop that!" "You're a liar!" and a flood of hissing came back to Mathot from the crowd. In the tumult which Mathot's address called forth Magistrate Baker was fairly swept away himself with amusement.

The judge reserved decision, but will rendered it later in the day.

Hissing Mingled With Cheers.

Herr Conreid and Ex-Judge Dittenhoefer and the crowd of dandies who have made up the Caruso party throughout the hearing quickly surrounded the tenor and hustled him out of the court to a waiting cab.

There were fully 500 people in the street. Here again a remarkable scene occurred in which hissing cut through the roaring of applause.

"Monkey house, monkey house," shouted persons in the crowd derisively. "You'll get yours," others shouted at the tenor, and with those cries came cheer of his adherents. "Bravo, Caruso." "Salud, Caruso!"

It took seventy-five policemen to old the crowds that battled to get into the courtroom to-day, and cursing, cheering and all restraint, fought to make their way into the chambers.

"A Police Case."

Caruso's chief counsel, Judge Dittenhoefer, in summing up the case for the defence, said:

"The remarkable thing that stands right out is that they have failed to produce Hannah Graham; that the police endeavored to hold a man on a charge like this with no other testimony than has been given here. They have had a week in which to produce Mrs. Graham. We, too, have tried to find her. We have had the Pinkerton agency and other agents looking for her, but have been unable to find her. This bears out my theory that it is a purely made up police case.

"It is a terrible thing when a citizen is up against such a police game."

Dramatic and fervid recriminations of his innocent name from Caruso when he was again put under Deputy Police Commissioner Mathot's hot fire of cross-examination.

"I say again it is all lies," exclaimed Caruso.

This declaration followed the bringing of a direct accusation by former Judge Dittenhoefer, Caruso's lawyer, that his client was the victim of a police plot which miscarried.

Mrs. Hannah Graham, the missing complainant, whom Caruso is alleged to have insulted in the monkey house in Central Park, was not produced in court to-day by the prosecution. Mr. Mathot admitted that he was unable to bring the woman face to face with Caruso.

Mrs. Graham Located.

"Mrs. Graham has been found," said he to Magistrate Baker, "I can say that we have been successful in this. She was found about two o'clock this morning in a place forty miles from New York and outside of the jurisdiction of this court.

"We requested her to come here and testify against the defendant, but she refused. She said that she could not stand the notoriety. So we could not get her here."

"I do not believe that this woman had left the jurisdiction of the court," retorted Mr. Dittenhoefer, "because I never did believe and I do not now believe that such a woman existed except as a confederate of Detective Cain, the man who made the arrest."

Caruso Again Questioned.

Caruso was questioned by the deputy commissioner.

Q—Do you remember being at a reception held in a fashionable house on Fifth avenue at Thirty-sixth street, or one or two blocks from there, on the Sunday after last Thanksgiving? A—No.

Q—Are you prepared to say you were not there?

The tenor turned toward his counsel and grew very nervous. After some hesitation he answered: "I am not."

Q—Do you recall leaving that reception at about 5:30 in the evening and being asked by a lady, one of the guests, to step into her automobile that she might take you to your home?

Lawyer Dittenhoefer's objection to the question was sustained.

Q—Were you not in that automobile on your way up Fifth avenue, in front of the Union League club, engaged by that lady with taking certain liberties with her?

"I must strenuously object to this question," began Dittenhoefer. The objection was sustained.

SAYS HE STOLE GRANDDAUGHTER

Dube was arrested on a warrant sworn out by his daughter, the mother of the child. The child is declared to be missing, and Dube's daughter told the police that her father was detaining her somewhere.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Owing to fear that United States Senator Tillman may be assassinated when he reaches Chicago, his arrival will be kept secret until he is safe in his apartments at the Annex. He is expected next Tuesday.

Senator Tillman is scheduled to lecture at Orchestra Hall Tuesday night for the benefit of the Chicago Union Hospital. Efforts have been made to prevail upon him from speaking. Threats have been made by persons opposed against his life. One report is that a woman has planned to shoot him during his lecture.

TO THE PUBLIC:

The advertisement appearing in the Boston newspapers this morning addressed "To the Holders of Norton Oil, Douglas Copper and King-Crowther Stock" and signed by "Coakley, Coakley & Sherman, Counsellors-at-Law," proves conclusively that I was right in my warning announcement concerning the Arcadian copper bubble yesterday, when I said that the "warming over of Arcadian is no ordinary financial trick. It is being engineered by some of the cleverest schemers in the United States."

The advertisement printed by this firm of attorneys today is the most dastardly and cowardly attempt at a stab in the back, under cover of darkness, ever made upon an American citizen.

In the newspapers of Boston tomorrow I shall reply to it in full with all the strength and vigor at my command.

It is the hit dog that yelps!

RARE MUSIC STIRS CROWDS OF SHOPPERS

Famous Orchestra Furnishes Treat for Patrons of Houghton & Dutton's.

HUNGARIANS AT THEIR BEST

A the patrons of Houghton & Dutton entered the third floor of its attractive department store at Tremont and Boylston streets they looked about in amazement as a delightful, catchy music greeted them.

And it was the music that charmed, too, as the large crowd that gathered about the Royal Hungarian orchestra attested. Young and old vied with each other in an endeavor to get a vantage point where they would be undisturbed while they gave themselves over to reverie brought about by sentimental music.

The musicale was given by the Hungarian orchestra, and that is sufficient in itself, for the members are famed far and wide as being skilled musicians. There were the pieces and each number contributed to a symphony which held hundreds in raptures.

Music Was Irresistible.

As one was being whirled up in the elevator the delicate tones of the stringed instruments brought a cheer and a feeling of enjoyment which was irresistible. In spite of that made from above the rattling melody emanated and consequently many more ordered the elevator man to stop at the third floor.

The people seemed to pour in from all directions; first one would be noticed being hug from behind a big pair of carpet, while another would dodge from in front of a large sideboard, all with one object in view, that is to get as near as possible to the music centre.

Some of the melodies were so lively that the younger element could not restrain themselves from joining in the refrain and an air of gladness seemed to pervade the entire floor. But suddenly a sorrowful strain broke upon the air and the glee was checked and turned to reverie.

Moved by Sad Strains.

It was the sentimental air of "Someone Thinks of Someone" Hardly had the first strains been played before its force was keenly felt. Aged women, some of whom were lean and showed every mark of Father Time, evinced strong emotion as the sad music met their ears. Those of younger age were similarly affected, but the musicians continued to play, evidently unheedful of the power they possessed to compel emotional changes.

The Royal Hungarian Orchestra refers, by permission, to Mr. John Jacob Astor, Mrs. Timothy L. Woodruff, Mrs. Nick Tweedy, Mr. Pierre Lorillard, Jr., Mr. John E. Betz, Jr., Mr. John Wanamaker.

—JUDGE FALLON

Judge Refuses to Punish Two Men Who Are Found Guilty,

OTHERS MUST STOP FIRST'

Thomas McKellar of No. 154 Hunting ton avenue and William Edgerton of No. 24 Irene street, West End, were found guilty by Judge Fallon in South Boston District court to-day of violating the Sunday law by doing unnecessary work on the Sabbath by mending a cable and doing other repairs last Sunday on a pile driver on Commonwealth flats, South Boston, belonging to the Simplex Foundation Company.

Judge Fallon placed the cases on file however, saying:

"These men violated the law, but I have seen groups of men working on railroads and for other big corporations Sunday after there seemed to be no necessity for it. People degenerate by allowing this violation of the Sabbath. But until the Sunday work by other big corporations is stopped I shall not proceed against these men to make an example of them."

MORAN TAKES UP DOCK TRUST STREET GRAB

Promises East Boston Citizens He Will Institute Proceedings If Warranted.

STANDARD OIL SEIZURE

The people of East Boston who are seeking to prevent the Standard Oil Company and the Dock Trust from getting any certain highways for their own use, thus wasting $1,500,000 which has been spent there to abolish grade crossings, are to-day confident that their interests are safe in the hands of District Attorney John B. Moran, who has begun an investigation and promised a delegation of East Boston citizens he would institute injunction proceedings if they are warranted.

The people of East Boston are indignant over the fact that Bremen street has been closed to traffic over a year as a benefit to the Standard Oil company, whose works are in that vicinity. On May 2 of this year the Railroad Commissioners granted the petition of the Dock Trust to lay tracks crossing Lewis street on Webster street, Sumner street, between Lewis and Orleans, and Marginal street near Lewis street.

East Boston people had fought the petition from the start and they were aided by the protests of all of the labor unions. The Board of Aldermen had originally passed the order, Mayor Collins vetoed it. At another meeting it was passed over the veto. This was done at a meeting the legality of which was later called in question.

About one month ago Attorney-General Dana Malone decided that the 52,000 citizens of East Boston who seek to prevent the Dock Trust from converting their streets into a railway switching yard had no ground for action against the Dock Trust.

It is contended that the Dock Trust franchise is dead, and that it was killed by the veto of Mayor Collins, and that the Board of Aldermen, as shown by the city records, failed to pass the measure over the Mayor's veto.

That the Standard Oil spur track has been laid in Bremen street in defiance of law is asserted by the East Boston people.

TO PROTEST CAPT. CLARK IN MEDFORD

A written protest to the Board of Registrars of Medford is expected to be made before 5 p. m. to-day by the supporters of Captain Myron G. Curtis against Captain James C. D. Clark of that city being declared the Republican nominee for Mayor by a plurality of one vote over Captain Curtis.

If a protest is made the matter will go before the local Ballot Law Commission for decision. In case the decision of the Board of Registrars is upheld, there is talk that an appeal may be made to the courts to restrain City Clerk Allston F. Joyce from putting Captain Clark's name on the election ballot.

This unique situation was brought about by the act of one voter at the Republican caucus who marked a cross directly over the middle initial in Captain Curtis's name on the ballot.

The first count gave a plurality of two votes for Captain Clark. A recount gave a plurality for Captain Clark of one, not counting the wrongly marked ballot.

There was argument in the Board of Registrars whether the voter of this particular ballot meant to vote for Curtis or to scratch his name altogether. If the ballot was counted for Curtis it would tie the vote at 429 each, which would result in there being no Republican nominee at all at this late day. If the ballot was rejected, Clark would win by one vote.

After much discussion the Registrars voted, three to one, to throw out the ballot, giving the nomination to Clark.

SALESMANSHIP IMPORTANT AS LAW, MEDICINE

That successful salesmanship is held as important as a profession as is law, medicine, theology and journalism, was the theory put forward in an address delivered before the salesmanship class of the Hyde low evening school, South Boston, last evening by Arthur W. Pahmey, superintendent of the Electrical Company department store. A number of department salesmen, who accompanied Mr. Pahmey, also gave brief talks on the practical requirements of successful salesmen.

"Anyone proficient in a profession is by virtue of that fact a professional," Mr. Pahmey said in opening his talk. "The lawyer is a professional man because of his knowledge of common law, the physician because of his knowledge of medicine, and the minister because of his knowledge of theology. The business man is now a professional man, that is, those who are, or have been, students of the science of salesmanship, because they have able science to guide.

"The starting out in mercantile life twenty years, or even ten years ago, was different than it is to-day. No particular line of preparation was suggested. To-day applicants for positions are told what lie or her possibilities are, and a definite line of promotion to follow. There is something to look forward to, a science to study, a profession.

"Your professional career has to be got through personal application to your work."

CLERGY STRONG AGAINST MIDNIGHT LAW

OF 10 MINISTERS ONLY ONE FAVORS EXTENSION OF TIME, ONE NONCOMMITTAL.

Boston on Tuesday, December 11, will decide whether hotels shall have the additional privilege of selling liquor on week days until 12 o'clock midnight and the question is already arousing widespread interest. There is a great diversity of opinion among citizens in general as to the merits of the question.

Among the clergy, however, as shown by interviews obtained by the BOSTON AMERICAN, there is a strong sentiment against extending the hour for selling. Of ten clergymen seen eight are opposed to the extension of the time, one is in favor and one non-committal.

The Massachusetts No License League opposes the 12 o'clock law and especially to second class hotels.

On the other hand the Boston Merchants' Association at a special meeting declared in favor of the law as a business proposition.

The law if accepted by a majority of the voters of Boston, allows only one license for the 12 o'clock privilege for every 20,000 of the population so that there are only thirty of these licenses to be granted. As there are seventy-two hotels now holding liquor licenses which are allowed to sell until 11 o'clock, the selection of the thirty to have the midnight privilege rests with the Excise Board. The list of hotels from which the board will be called upon to decide is as follows:

Adams House	Crawford	Marlboro	Rexford
American House (East Boston)	Dierkes	Maverick	Rossmore
American House	Dooley's	Nieuasset	St. James
Bellevue	Eagle	Napoli	Shakespeare Inn
Berwick	Falmouth	National	Somerset
Boston Tavern	Grand View	New England	Strachan's
Brigham's	Grand Union	New Lexington	Tivoli
Brighton Hotel	Hampden	New Marlboro	Thorndike
Brunswick	Haymarket	New Tremont	Touraine
Bunker Hill	Higgins	Nettingham	Trafalgar
Castle Square	Highland	Oxford	United States
Clarendon	Italy	Parker House	Vendome
Cecil	Jacot	Peninsula	Venice
Columbus	Jefferson	Piscopo	Victoria
Clark's	Ketterer's	Plaza	Westminster
Continental	Langham	Potter's	Woodcock
Copley Square	Lenox	Quincy	Young's
	Lowell	Revere

How to Vote on Midnight Closing

The midnight license question will appear on the ballot as follows:

Shall Chapter 395 of the Acts of 1906, entitled "An Act to extend the time in which intoxicating liquors may be sold by innholders in the City of Boston," be accepted?

YES
NO

If you favor allowing the hotels to sell liquor until 12 o'clock, you will place your cross-mark opposite the word "Yes." If you oppose liquor selling after 11 o'clock, you will place your cross-mark after the word "No."

What Men Say of 12 O'Clock Law

James Henderson,
Of Johnson's Real Estate Agency, Field's Corner, Dorchester.

"I see no good reason or sense in having such a bill get in the good judgment of the people. The 12 o'clock closing of saloons should be defeated by a large majority on election day."

Thomas Hoy,
No. 5 Duncan street, Dorchester.

"To vote for the referendum bill means voting for prosperity. It will bring business to Boston and help us thrive. Now the number of guests our hotels would house, if the 12 o'clock law was in vogue, who now get off at Providence for the night, before coming to Boston in the morning."

Zeno S. Smith,
Real Estate Agent, Field's Corner.

"The citizens of such a grand city as ours should certainly vote in favor of the 12 o'clock closing bill. It will strengthen our business interests and put us on a level with New York and Chicago."

Charles Simpson,
G. A. R. Veteran, Holmes avenue, Dorchester.

"Keep the hotel bars open until 12 o'clock by all means, but have the law include instead of one to every 20,000 people, every hotel that deserves a license, and thereby show favors to none. Treat all alike."

John B. Hoar,
Druggist, No. 1 Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury.

"I believe that there are respectable men and women who patronize the first-class hotels, but the wants of these can easily be satisfied before 11 p. m. Those men and women who go loafing for liquor, no matter in what form, after that hour do not deserve to be termed respectable. I shall not vote for the new law."

Thomas L. Bramhall,
Teacher of Mathematics, No. 113 Moreland street, Roxbury.

"Those who patronize the first-class hotels should be granted the same privileges that similar hotels in other large cities extend to their patrons. The ordinary saloon can serve the wants of the class of trade to which they are accustomed before 11 o'clock, but the new law is an absolute necessity for the large hotels of the city."

Charles S. Pidgin,
Chief Bureau of Statistics of Labor, State House.

"I believe in a busier, bigger Boston and the law would be good for the traveling men, who get in late at night, and those who have to sit around and wait for trains. But then the young people must be considered. Boys and girls hang out too late now around Washington street and with the 12 o'clock law they would remain out longer. People will have to choose between pleasure and duty."

Edward A. Cohen,
Clerk, No. 20 Huckins street, Roxbury.

"If I had the power I should restrict the sale of liquor entirely, except for medicinal purposes. I shall strive to get my friends to see the folly of changing the present law."

Thomas Jefferson Coolidge,
Ex-United States Minister to France.

"Liquor places can't close too early for me. I am strictly opposed to innkeepers being allowed to remain open until midnight."

Thomas F. Phelan,
No. 32 Adams street, Roxbury.

"The midnight customers who frequent those so-called first class hotels should be given to understand that they cannot debauch the body politic by dragging the unsuspecting wayward girl into a "boose den" and dwarfing her mentality with effluentants and making possible more direful case mysteries. When the voters are passing judgment on this 12 o'clock law let them picture to themselves the poor old mother, as she sits at the window awaiting the home-coming of her only son and daughter from the gay city; let them discern the cry of pain which emanates from that poor old soul as she survives her offspring alighting from a cab in a drunken state in the wee morning hours, and I have no doubt in suspecting that if they do their vote will be an emphatic "No."

Harry N. Farren,
Manager Columbia Theatre.

"I want to see this bill passed. So do all the other theatre owners and managers. As conditions now are, theatre-goers are obliged to make a wild exit before the final curtain if they wish to procure liquor with their supper after a play."

Albert Haley,
Broadway, South Boston.

"The 12 o'clock referendum bill should meet with the general approbation of the people of Boston."

Joseph O'Connor, Insurance Agent,
Bond street.

"The city needs this bill as a law. Stopping the liquor privileges at 11 o'clock means simply the locking up of the city gates to drunkards and men with money to spend."

George B. Billings,
United States Immigration Commissioner for the Port of Boston.

"I am in favor of the midnight liquor referendum. I think good hotels ought to be allowed to sell wines and liquors to guests until 12 o'clock. It will make business better and always all will make Boston a city instead of a town."

Joseph McIsaacs, Tailor,
Corner Washington and East Dedham streets.

"I've visited nearly every city of importance in the United States, and everywhere they pass the joke about Boston and the 11 o'clock law. Business men won't come here because of our early closing laws. We need the passage of this bill and my others that will draw business here."

William L. Johnson, Surveyor,
No. 61 Howard avenue, Roxbury.

"If the strangers, business men, traveling men and others, don't like the present law, let them stay at home. In this law we seek to benefit the standing of our city, not to gratify the desires of those who have no interest in our fight for decency. Our first-class hotels would do well to explain their claim to being select if the twelve o'clock law is ever extended to them. At one minute after eleven the clean sport and daylight from the gay city let loose on the bartender in the corner saloon, would limp his way to the first-class hotel and there seek balm for his injured feelings."

Ex-Senator Daniel V. McIsaac,
Dorchester street, South Boston.

"I will quite see no reason in being in favor of the 12 o'clock bill for first-class hotels and not favor that it would mean a big increase, not only to the hotels, but to business in general."

James J. Moynihan, Lawyer,
Athens street, South Boston.

"I believe the 12 o'clock law will be considered favorably by every liberal thinking person in Boston."

Benjamin Hunt, News Dealer,
Fields Corner.

"The Referendum Bill should be defeated. All saloons should close at 11 o'clock."

Samuel Bloom, Tailor,
Fields Corner.

"As the Referendum Bill, if adopted, is going to soon for the closing of the saloons."

Timothy Coughlin,
Linden street, Dorchester.

"Let the saloons stay open till 12 o'clock. It will bring business to Boston and make us a second New York. The bill should pass by all means."

William Morrissey,
Wescott street, Dorchester.

"The Referendum Bill should never go through. Eleven o'clock, in my mind, is none too early for the saloons to close."

Dr. David J. Ingraham,
Hotel Arlington.

"Give me the midnight liquor bill and give it to me strong. If I had my way the hotels and cafes would be open all night. I never knew a town that was handicapped on the liquor question to be any good. I shall vote for the measure and I hope there will be enough votes to make it a law."

Rev. D. W. Waldron,
Chaplain of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, No. 14 Beacon street.

"I agree. If those hotels keep open till 11 o'clock they will have sufficient time in which to deal out death warrants in bottles. Why give the rum cell one more hour in which to reap its grim harvest? I have seen family after family ruined and wiped out by the curse of rum and I have no sympathy with these hotel people who plead for one more hour in which to carry on their terrible traffic.

"No, I guess that 11 o'clock is about the right hour. We want to give the drunkards time in which to sober off, you know, if I had my way there would be closed up every hour out of the twenty four."

Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann,
Rector Trinity Episcopal Church.

"On the face of it the midnight referendum looks like a good proposition. I believe reputable hotels should be allowed to serve their transient guests a bottle of wine with their food if they wish it. First-class hotels should be allowed the privilege of dispensing liquors with food until 12 o'clock."

Robert E. Flynn,
Printer, No. 4 Marshfield street, Roxbury.

"The meeting of hours regarding the sale of liquor is one requiring close study of conditions existing under the present schedule.

"It is annoying to be disturbed at the theatres near the close of an impressive scene by the exodus of worshippers at the hour of five-thirty, who desire their portion of grits before the closing of the bars.

"I do not think that the extension of hours for liquor selling would cause an increase in our population. If closed hours for the sale of liquor must prevail, as in the building of a bigger, more business Boston, this city would soon bear the name of 'Sagger Town,' instead of 'Hub of Boston.' Taking it on a basis of fair play, give the small dealer equal opportunities with his capitalistic brethren. I do not believe in advancing the hours of peddling an unnecessary evil and as a total abstainer I nevertheless recognize all rights to express my opinion and also the opportunity to do so when invited by the people's champion, the BOSTON AMERICAN."

SANTA PLANS BIG SURPRISE

Santa Claus has planned a great surprise for the children of New England. What it is, he is not saying one bit he has everything arranged and promises to tell what it is next Monday morning. When the census report from New England reached him in his frozen Northern home Santa Claus was surprised but at once he determined to let the children hear from him.

What Santa has planned, he says it isn't any use to guess. He says this much. It isn't anything to eat, it isn't anything to wear, it isn't anything to read. He says he is going to give the biggest surprise next Monday morning to Henry Siegel Company, now that's all he will say for now but he advises the children to read the newspapers carefully on Sunday and Monday.

MISS GUILIA MOROSINI. MRS. ROSE PASTOR STOKES.

Says When Rude Awakening Comes Toiling Masses Will Work for Themselves.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Miss Giulia Morosini, the daughter of the rich banker, who said that she could not dress on less than $50,000 a year and who asked what working girls would do if they were not given employment by the rich, was taken to task sharply by Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes, who declared that the wealthy girl was more of a pauper than the poorest person who had to work for a living.

"Women of Miss Morosini's class may not be aware of the fact that they are paupers," said Mrs. Stokes. "A pauper is one who is supported at the expense of the community, either through inability or unwillingness to support himself. It seems to me the one who can, but is unwilling to, support himself is the truer pauper of the two. In a just and fair society, and in a state of high civilization, there will be no room for the latter kind of pauperism.

Rude Awakening Coming.

"Miss Morosini says she believes that woman's duty is to dress as beautifully as possible, from an artistic point of view, because in doing so she keeps money in circulation. If one has done nothing to earn that money, the circulation of it is no virtue. It is because such women as Miss Morosini never think what things cost, and the working classes are compelled to think constantly of what things cost, that the rude awakening is bound to come to us all some day.

"Perhaps it will come at a greater cost than we can afford unless these women who spend great wealth on they have never earned begin to think early and soon of the deep injustice underlying our economic and social conditions.

"Wasteful and extravagant women are not happy. Because they do not deserve to be happy. Women having only barely enough clothes to give them a semblance of self-respect cannot be happy. There is not a thing Miss Morosini wears that is not produced by labor, and yet labor lives in poverty.

Points "Her Plain Duty."

"It is her duty to inquire into the sources of her wealth; to inquire who produced it, and under what conditions; to inquire the compensation of those who produced it, and why she, who bears no relation to it, should have it. That is her plain duty, if she would but see it—not the putting it into circulation for personal adornment.

"Miss Morosini is quoted as saying, 'What would the working girls do if they had no rich to work for?' God willing, they would work for themselves. Instead of making things for idlers they would make things for workers who would return the courtesy by making things for them.

"I know that Miss Morosini does some charitable work in a small way around her home in Riverdale, but she does not allow her charities to interfere with the extravagant adornment of her person. Doing the right thing is more indicative of taste and character than wearing the right thing.

Doesn't Know Her Charity.

When Mrs. Stokes's words were called to the attention of Miss Morosini she shrugged her shoulders and said:

"Mrs. Stokes? Who is she? Oh, yes, I remember. She doesn't know, poor thing. She doesn't know of the good I do. I suppose every one must live his own life as he sees it. That is all. I have nothing more to say."

UNION OPPOSES BIENNIAL VOTE

Believing that the government should remain in closest touch with the will of the people, Machinists' Lodge No. 264 unanimously passed resolutions last night condemning the effort being made to corporations to have biennial elections in this State.

Anderman Kneeland, in the course of an address on "What Should Be the Limits of Trades Unions in Politics?" said, regarding biennial elections:

"The corporations and trusts do not care to pay their annual tribute of thousands of dollars to elect men who will be subservient to them. The labor organizations are to-day taking up this matter, and are saying as with one voice that public servants should report at least once a year. One year is long enough for any man to be elected, and the man who has done his duty has nothing to fear."

The resolutions which were offered by Robert Tate, are as follows:

"Whereas, an effort is being made by the corporations to have biennial elections in this State; and

"Whereas, we believe our govern ea is a democracy, and should remain in closest touch with the will of the people; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we, the members of Machinists' Lodge No. 264, do hereby go on record as being unreservedly opposed to biennial elections in this State."

HIGGINS CASE IS CONTINUED

WATCH THE CAMERA MAN; HE'S APT TO GET YOU

He Catches One Woman Shopper Every Weekday in the Retail District.

JUST like finding money, isn't it? Easiest way in the world to win $2, isn't it? Why, it's the plainest proposition ever made.

Here it is in a nutshell. The BOSTON AMERICAN Camera Man circulates every day about noontime in the vicinity of stores patronized by readers of this newspaper. He takes one snapshot of a woman shopper daily.

When the picture is printed the original of the photograph calls, identifies the snapshot and receives a reward of $2 for her trouble. If she can't call she sends a photograph of herself, and if she's "it" she gets a check by return mail. Anything simpler?

Keep your eye on the Camera Man. He may catch you any day.

The Original of This Snapshot Will Receive a Prize of $2.

Weak Kidneys, Weak Nerves

SO A PHYSICIAN WRITES

It is of but little use to try to doctor the kidneys themselves. Such treatment is wrong, for the kidneys are not to blame for their weaknesses or irregularities. They have no power to self-control. They are operated and aroused by a tiny shred of a nerve which is largely responsible for their strength, or weakness. If the kidney nerve is strong and healthy the kidneys are and cannot help but be. If kidney nerve goes wrong you know it by the inevitable result—kidney trouble.

This tender nerve is only one of a great system of nerves. All these nerves centralize not only the kidneys, but the heart and the liver, and the stomach. For simplicity's sake Dr. Shoop has called this vital nerve system the "Inside Nerves." They are not to be confused with the nerves that enable you to walk, to talk, to act, to think. They are the master nerves and the vital organ in this nerve system.

The one remedy which aims to treat not the Kidneys alone, but the nerve which they to blame, is known by physicians and druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative (Tablet or Liquid). This remedy is not a symptom remedy—it is strictly a cause remedy. While it usually brings speedy relief, its effects are also lasting.

If you would like to read an interesting book on inside nerve disease, write Dr. Shoop. With the book he will also send the "Health Token"—an intended passport to perfect health. Both the book and the "Health Token" are free.

For the free book Book 1 on Dyspepsia, and the "Health Token" for the Heart, Token" you must address Dr. Shoop, Box 8 Racine, Wis. Book 4 for Women. Book 5 for Rheumatism. Write which book you want. Book 6 on Rheumatism.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative Tablets—give full three weeks' treatment. Each form—liquid or tablet—has equal merit. Druggists every where.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

We Have Stopped Selling Pianos to the Piano Trust

They purposely misrepresent us. We have been willing at times to sell them some of their pianos—second-hand ones at that—but they have declined to consider us as honorable buyer to go to another store and buy a piano. Because full well that we had not sold them all of their pianos to us they salesmen at their store at once told us we could not sell to the person that they had sent to us until next Monday—what they meant we would say that we did not have any of their pianos in our store. Now, we have come to the conclusion to accommodated the Trust dealer by selling him his own make pianos and mean to the person sent from such a time wearing and disgraceful errand. In the future we will do all we can to prevent any Piano Trust representative from buying any piano at the Roxbury Storage Salesroom. We have no use for them, and we do not propose to accommodate the Piano Trust Dealer in any way. If the Piano Trust Dealer be hasten us. We can assure you that if you buy a piano at this week's sale you will make a big saving and be happy.

COACH ROCKWELL

COACH BILL REID IS CONFIDENT

"We are full of confidence. In fact, we have so much of it that we haven't room for anything else."—Statement by Coach Bill Reid.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 23.—Already this college town is besieged with the football fanatics who make it a point to get to the scene of the annual gridiron battle between the Blue and Crimson on the day before to participate in the celebration which always starts up twenty-four hours ere the real strife is on at the Yale field.

Every train from the different points of the compass brought visitors who had neglected to secure their tickets of admission to the game, and the looks of disappointment on their faces after going to the headquarters where the pasteboards were supposed to be on sale spoke plainly the state of affairs in regard to the chances of securing any tickets for the big game. There are speculators on the streets, but they want fabulous prices for their wares and their supply will all be gone by night fall.

Already the streets are filled with the advance guard of the army of fakirs who are loaded down with Harvard and Yale colors and football souvenirs of every description.

Gay Decorations.

The shop windows are alive with the Crimson and Blue, with the latter in greater profusion, and the decorations this year are exceptionally fancy, as the undergraduates have taken a keen interest in making the event a competition for elaborateness in arranging his or her show window.

Stidd old New Haven is under a spell, and is once more at the mercy of the rioters, who every two years swoop down over the Collegeans and indulge in all the merry making which is part of the dual between Yale and Harvard.

To-day's passing show is mild in comparison to the storm which will break to-night, the night before which always awaken the memories of old football lovers, and there is harrying to the shrine of the football king, who sports here to-morrow.

The hotels and cafes are overcrowded, and football talk alone holds sway in every corner of the city. The merits of the two big teams are eagerly discussed and the supporters wax warm over the respective abilities of their champions.

Never before was the betting contingent so uncertain concerning the outcome, and the stories about the strength of the teams keep the money changers in a state of worriment.

All Tickets Sold.

Every ticket of admission to the big amphitheatre where the crowds will watch the contest is out and the clamor for more coming from the general public is rife with the statement that all the tickets have been distributed to the students and graduates of Harvard and Yale and that none are for sale to the public. Never before has this been the case at a game in this city, and hundreds are due to be disappointed. The few speculators who have tickets are reaping a harvest and as high as $50 has been paid for a pair of pasteboards of admission to the field. The price will surely go up to-morrow.

Fair weather is promised by the weather man and that is cold enough for football. The field, which is heavy with the recent wet weather, will hardly have time to dry before the contest. It will be soft pulling in the scrummages to-morrow.

The Yale team held their last scrimmage yesterday, and this afternoon will journey to the field for their annual ceremony of burning the worn out togs of the 'varsities with a new dance by the coaders around the fire. The team will go through a last signal drill and then go to the New Haven Country Club, two miles from town, to remain until the game.

The Harvard men, at their headquarters at the Pequot Hotel, Edgris Cove, were up bright and early this morning and out for a walk. This afternoon they will have light signal practice and some drill in kicking the ball, and will then retire for their last restless night before the struggle. The Harvard team is picked, and the Yale team practically so, though there will doubtless be changes in the backfield at the last minute, owing to the injury to Knox, which may prevent his playing.

Eli Coaches Confident.

Yale coaches think that they can just about deliver the goods Saturday against Harvard. Coach Reid said: "Yale should win, if only by a small score. The men have been given a thorough rest and are in as good or better condition than when they met Princeton last Saturday."

Coach Bloomer said:

"The game will undoubtedly be close, but Yale is in prime condition and will in all probability win by a small score."

Clinton Rockwell, who has been coaching the centre men, said:

"After the showing at Princeton by the entire team little need be said of their capabilities. Yale will undoubtedly outplay the Crimson team."

Line Coach Phil Smith would grant Harvard nothing. "It is all Yale," he said. "The game is even up to as close as was expected. All of the men are in the best of shape, and should defeat Harvard in the first half."

Head Coach William Mer. Blair of the freshmen said that in his opinion Yale had no chance of losing. "The team is in the best of physical shape, and by playing in the form they showed at Princeton they should take the game easily."

Head Coach Bill Reid said: "We are full of confidence. In fact, we have so much of it, that we haven't room for anything else."

When asked what he thought of the injuries of Knox and Roome of Yale, he said: "Yale is mighty lucky to get off with only two cripples."

In reference to discuss the ultimatum sent to Yale by Harvard forcing a fill set of officials, picked by Harvard, down Yale's throat. He said: "Yale and Harvard have settled on their officials. No use talking any more about it."

Reid Gives Harvard Excuse.

Coach Reid of the Harvard eleven said that Harvard would ask for the appointment of the set of officials secured for the Yale-Harvard game because poor officiating has jeopardized the game at Harvard. "Football is not assured at Harvard after this year," said he. "No game has been promised for next season. Poor officiating has jeopardized the game in the past, and those who love football at Harvard were determined that the set of men selected for the Yale-Harvard game this year should prove thoroughly competent. We feel that the men selected will answer this description. I will not discuss the conference of Monday. I will say that what was done was not my own act simply, but Carr everystep taken was by advice from the highest Harvard athletic bosses."

Mr. Reid was asked about his close personal friendship for E. M. Haff of Boston, the Dartmouth man chosen as referee. He resented the insinuation contained in the question.

"I want you to understand that Mr. Haff is too great a man to be mentioned in such a connection."

"Is Professor Azresult of the Groton School a Harvard man?"

"I don't know. He has sent many boys to Yale and Harvard, and he is an authority on football."

"Will there be any Yale Harvard football after this year?"

"I can't say. We are here to play the game and abide by the result. I hope that the better team will win."

Dartmouth at Northampton.

NORTHAMPTON, Nov. 23.—The Dartmouth team arrived in this city from Hanover early last evening, and is quartered at the Draper. There are twenty-six players in the squad, which is in charge of Head Coach Folsom. They will go through light practice this forenoon, which will be the only time before the game.

The field is in fine condition and it is expected that there will be a crowd of 15,000 present at the game. There is considerable betting in Springfield at even money, and at odds of 5 to 4 on Brown.

The team was given a rousing send-off yesterday afternoon when they left Hanover for Northampton. Every body massed on the commons steps and cheered the team as never before.

The following men were taken on the trip: Centers, Briggs, Billingham; guards, Tobin, Smith, Prevey, McDonald, Black; backs, Haig, Hobbs, Smith, Baldwin; quarters, Captain Glaze, Merbeuth, Knight; backs, Stuart, Driver, Sewall, Burnett, Hennegg, Burns, Greenwood, Hathaway; coaches, Folsom, Gage; trainer, Mr. Bowlen; managers, McLane and Clark.

GOODMAN BEAT DALY IN ELEVEN

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 23.—Kid Goodman of Boston, to-night received the decision over Tommy Daly of New York, in the eleventh round of what was scheduled to be a fifteen-round contest beefre the Eureka Athletic Club. Daly was in no condition whatever, having but twenty-four hours' notice for the bout, and he gave the Bostonian a good battle as long as it lasted.

Amby McGarry of New York was to have been Goodman's opponent, but sent word that he was ill, and Daly jumped into the breach.

Goodman was inclined to rough matters and several times struck Tommy in the groin, but the foul was not allowed. For the first six rounds Daly outfought his opponent at every stage of the game. He outgeneraled and outpointed the "Kid." He had no difficulty in punching the Yonkee's face with both right and left. By continual jabs to the face he split Goodman's lip and had the blood flowing freely.

After the fifth round lack of condition began to tell on Daly, and every time he was hit he would wince. In the eleventh round Goodman planted a hard right and left to the stomach and Daly went to his knees just as his seconds threw the sponge in the ring. Goodman hit Daly twice while he was still down. Daly claimed a foul, but his claim was not allowed.

FOOTBALL RETURNS AT THE COLUMBIA

Manager Harry N. Farren of the Columbia has prepared a bill for to-morrow afternoon at that theatre that will prove interesting to the sporting fraternity in general and athletes in particular. In addition to the valuable instructions of the Great Vulcano on "How to Become Strong" and his marvelous feats of strength, one of which consisted in the lifting of a carriage horse and bringing him up a ladder, there will have read from the stage full returns of the Harvard-Yale game at New Haven, and the results of the other big football contests in which Bostonians are more or less interested.

ELDER CAPTAINS WILLIAMS.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Nov. 23.—The members of the Williams College football eleven yesterday afternoon elected William N. Elder of Brooklyn captain of the team for next year.

ANNUAL RUN OF HUB AUTO DEALERS

By J. C. Kerrison.

The Boston Automobile Dealers' Association is to enjoy its annual run to Ferncroft to-morrow afternoon. The party will leave Park Square, from in front of the Motor Mart about 2 o'clock. The trip over the hills to the new Ferncroft will be made in due and proper order without any speed work whatever. President MacAlman has issued a ban on racing for that day, saying the men may talk about, but not indulge in speed.

Harry Mansfield of Ferncroft has gotten everything in readiness for the visit of the dealers. His new building on the site of the old historic mansion has been completed and was really dedicated by the cause of motoring on Monday evening, last. To-morrow's festivities will serve only to further attest the popularity of this place where motorists most do congregate.

* * *

The board of directors of the Bay State Automobile Association has gone over the entire matter and at the forthcoming annual meeting will submit a draft of new constitution and by-laws for the edification of the members. The constitution has not been materially changed except that the active membership is limited to 800, and the annual dues increased from $5 to $10, and the initiation increased to $15.

* * *

The Rhode Island Automobile Club will hold its annual club hill climb on the morning of Thanksgiving Day. Several of the members residing in this section will make entries, including Jack Shaw, with his Peerless.

* * *

E. A. Morrison of the A. E. Morrison Co. left Boston yesterday for a long trip to Detroit and Cleveland, where he is to inspect the factories in those cities.

* * *

Manager J. S. Hathaway of the White Steaming Machine Co., returned from Cleveland yesterday highly pleased with what he saw at the factory. He says the new White is a beauty in all respects, and possesses speed and hill-climbing ability to suit the most exacting. This car will first be shown at the show which opens in New York City on Saturday, December 1, and is sure to attract no end of attention.

* * *

Charles G. Percival of the Lincoln Motor Company yesterday sold a Reo runabout that is to be shipped to Manila there to be used for special work in visiting the different cities in the Philippines.

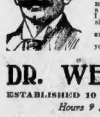
Building Up Men

Can never be successful or permanent unless it be done by a specialist who thoroughly understands the cause —REAL CAUSE—of ailments and weaknesses of men.



The wrong beginning on a weakened or impaired constitution is but a further drain, further weakening of the reserve forces, and it really is most men to get strong, vigorous, well and manly. I treat a case, I stop as soon as possible the cause of the trouble, then direct this terrible loss of energy and power to building up.

For seven years I have studied the different ailments of men. As a result of the trustees of my methods, I have built up a practice which, I believe, is second to none in New England. I have the finest medical offices in the United States and every possible equipment for the cure of men's ailments.

I make a reasonable charge for cure and that cures medicines and all treatment.

I am sure if you will call and talk over your case with me that you will let me cure you.

At any rate, come in and consult me without cost.

Girls Who Borrow Are the Girls Who Lose Their Friends

By Beatrice Fairfax

A YOUNG man writes, asking me as there is always the danger of losing.

If I will write an article on the "girl borrower."

I have already written on that subject, but it is one that bears repetition.

There are some girls who, without any necessity for being so, are always short of money, clothes, etc. So they levy a tax on their obliging friends and borrow whatever they want. And very often, I regret to say, they forget to pay their debts.

A girl makes the greatest mistake in the world when she borrows money from a man.

It is hard for a man to refuse and often it may be most inconvenient.

Girls should remember that many of the young men they know are in very moderate circumstances and have a use for every cent they earn.

If a man invites you to go out in the evening he naturally expects to pay the expenses, but don't think that because you meet a man you know on the street car that he should pay your carfare.

Favors From Men

NEVER let a man pay your debts; it places you under an intolerable obligation. Also never allow him to buy wearing apparel for you. It is all right to accept trifling presents, ter to deprive yourself of it than but clothes of any kind should never be accepted.

Never borrow another girl's clothes. Every time you wear them you take just so much wear out of them and help wear them out.

It is also unwise to borrow jewelry.

When you go out with a party of girls pay your own way. Pay your carfare, luncheon and whatever expenses you may incur.

Men are always amused at watching women squabble over who will pay the carfare. Each one takes out her purse and insists. Half the time each is quite willing to drop the money back and let the other pay, but she doesn't quite like to do it.

Pay Own Way

THE simplest and best way would be for each one to pay her own fare.

Every housekeeper has suffered from the woman next door who is always "just out" of things.

She borrows everything from salt to the sewing machine. When she has a tea party she borrows the best teacups and the silver. When she makes a cake she borrows eggs. Tea and coffee she is always borrowing.

Unfortunately she is not so keen on returning as she is on borrowing, and she is always in debt.

The "borrower" has not the most enviable of reputations, for people quickly learn her weakness and avoid her as much as possible.

If you cannot afford to buy a thing try and do without it. It is far bebe in debt to your friends.

There is an ugly term that is close kin to borrow, and that is "sponge."

You would hate to be called a "sponge," wouldn't you? Well, It is just about as bad to be known as a "borrower."

What Readers Think of Trial Marriages

NEW ENGLAND women are taking intense interest in Mrs. Elsie Clews Parsons's startling proposal advocating trial marriages. Many letters have been received by the Home Magazine Editor discussing the question.

While both sides of the subject are considered, the letters thus far received indicate a forceful protest against any such plan.

Below are a few of the many scores of communications received. If you have something to say write out your views briefly, say in a letter of not over 200 words, and address Home Magazine Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 30-32 Summer street.

ANOTHER REMEDY

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

As I tell you frankly that I don't believe in trial marriages. They are opposed to the eternal laws of God and the finite laws of man. Mrs. Parsons is trying to solve a great problem—give her credit for that much. She has made a radical mistake, and her cure would be worse than the disease.

I would suggest trial separations upon couples when wedded relations are unsatisfactory. If the wife is absurd, let her leave her husband for a month, five months or more. If that course does not bring him to his knees, I would suggest that the separation be prolonged, for separation is better than a life of bickering and abuse. If people are mismated, another plunge into the lottery of matrimony more often proves their complete undoing than their salvation.

A GRANDMOTHER'S VIEW

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

Will you permit me, a grandmother, to say a word of horrified protest against the strange doctrine put out by Mrs. Herbert Parsons in her book called "The Family," the doctrine of "trial marriages"? Is it true that this woman, the wife of a Congressman, the daughter of a distinguished financier? It is difficult to believe these things.

What can the old world be coming to when an American girl, an American wife, can seriously suggest such thing as the "trial marriage?" It is most abhorrent to me. I wish that I might be able in express my feelings about it, but I cannot.

I have reached the chimney corner stage of existence, and hardly supposed that I should ever again be writing or dictating a letter for the press, but the New York young woman—she must be young,—has filled me.

My one consolation is that Mrs. Parsons, if she has made a mistake, will be found in jest. She would not have made it seriously. Anyhow, the good sense of the American people will frown down anything quite so bad as the "trial marriage" that has already done so. (MRS) L. A. B. Newton.

THE HOUSE OF DOOM

CHAPTER XXIV.

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

NEXT morning, after a night journey, I called at the Douglas Hotel, in Poughkeepsie, and was informed that Mrs. Morton had arrived on the previous evening.

At last I had run her to earth.

She sent word that she would see me in half an hour, therefore I idled along the streets, killing time until she made her appearance.

I told her nothing of the success of my advertisements, or the discovery of the plot so ingeniously formed against her, and allowed her to believe that I had only just arrived from New York. I was waiting to see whether she would explain her journey and her companionship with Mrs. Rumbold.

"You were recognized in Newburg," I exclaimed, after we had been chatting some time. "Tell me about it. I was surprised to get your note, and I confess I was also somewhat alarmed. Was the person who recognized you an enemy or a friend?"

"A friend," was her prompt reply. "But his very friendliness would, I know, be fatal to my interests, had it by-the recognized me, even in this dress, stopped me in the street, raised his hat, and spoke. But I discerned his intention, therefore I passed on with affected indignation and without answering. Had I opened my mouth, my voice might have betrayed me. I went on to Saratoga."

"Something happened there. Sibyl. Why don't you tell me?"

At Bay

"Sibyl," she said, in a tone of reproach, "Am I to be longer Sibyl to you, as of old? You are changed, Wilfrid—changed toward me. There is something in your manner so very unusual. What is it?"

"I desire to know the truth," I said in a hard voice. "You are trying to keep back things from me which I ought to know. I trust you, and yet you do not trust me in return. Indeed, it seems very much as though you are trying to deceive me."

"I am not," she protested. "You still misjudge me, Wilfrid, and merely because there are certain things which it would be against my own interests to explain at this moment. Every woman is permitted to have secrets surely; I may have mine. If you were in reality my husband, then it would be different. Hitherto you have been generosity itself toward me. Why withdraw it now, at the critical moment when I most require your aid and protection?"

"Why?"

"Because in Saratoga I was recognized by one of my enemies," she said. "Ah, you don't know what a narrow escape I had. He traced me, and came from New York to hunt me down and denounce me. Yet I managed to meet him with such careless ease that he was disarmed, and departed. And while he hesitated I escaped. He is still following, no doubt, but he is in Poughkeepsie, for all I know. If we meet again, Wilfrid," she added in a hoarse, tremulous voice, "if we meet again it will be for death. My doom will be sealed, I shall kill myself."

"No, no," I urged.

"Come, don't contemplate such a step as that."

"I fear to face him. I can never face him."

"You mean John Parham?"

"Who told you?" she started quickly. "How did you know his name?"

"I guessed it. They told me at the hotel that you had had a visitor, and that you had soon afterward escaped."

"Do you actually know Parham?"

Betrayed

"I met him once," was my reply, but I did not mention the fellow's connection with the house with the fatal stairs.

"Does he know that we are friends?"

"How can I tell? But why do you fear him?"

"Ah, it is a long story. I dare not face that man, Wilfrid. Surely that is sufficient."

"No, it is not sufficient," I replied. "You managed to escape and get to Schenectady."

"Ah!" The man at the hotel told you so, I suppose," she said. "Yes, I did escape, and narrowly. I was betrayed."

"By whom?"

"Unwittingly betrayed by a friend, I think," she replied, as we walked on together.

"Sibyl," I explained presently, halting again, and laying my hand upon her shoulder, "why are you not straightforward and outspoken with me?"

I recollected the postscript of the dead man's letter which I had secured in Petersson—the allegation that she was playing me false.

Her eyes were cast down in confusion at my plain question, yet the next instant she assumed a boldness that was truly surprising.

"I don't understand you," he declared with a light, nervous little laugh.

"Then I suppose I must speak more plainly," said. "It is a pity, Sibyl, that you did not tell me the truth from your own lips."

She grew pale, went pale as her eyes met mine in quick anxiety.

You Must Trust Me

"Wilfrid," she said, speaking in terribly earnest tones, "you must trust me. It is imperative. I know some things may look strange to you and I cannot blame you for being suspicious, but I cannot take you wholly into my confidence—not just now."

"Why not?" I demanded.

I was on the point of telling her all I knew, about the murder of the unfortunate in Tennant woods, of the suspicions fell and I had formed, and of the damning proofs of her guilt that had since turned up on every hand, but I restrained myself. I still hoped she might confess to me.

DAINTY GOWN FOR DEBUTANTE OF POLKA-DOTTED SILK MULL

Smart Dress That Is Pretty and Becoming

PRETTY ARRANGEMENT OF RIBBON TRIMMING

THE selection of the gown which Miss Dutton will wear at her coming out is a matter of no small importance.

On that occasion as never before she is subjected to the critical inspection of her mother's friends, and the impression she makes goes far to make or mar her future social success.

No factor helps more to put a woman at her ease and in possession of the poise that enables her to appear at her best than does the knowledge that her gown is not only correct but pretty and becoming.

The debutante, if at all lacking in self-confidence— as some of them are —would naturally be more affected by externals than would an older woman.

Delicate Colors

WHILE white will probably always hold first places for girlish wear, it is at present better style to add reliefs of delicate but becoming colors to those frocks.

Floral designs on handsome wide ribbons are especially appropriate and models and give an air of distinction to an otherwise simple toilet.

To-day's illustration is a very happy example of this usage. The gown is of polka-dotted silk mull, made over a slip of pale pink, with an underlining of plain mull—so that the effect is delicate in the extreme; the bolero made of the ribbon folded, and the overlapping points caught with buttons of silver filigree. Matching ribbon finishes the half sleeve, and below them a graduated frill of daintily hemstitched mull falls over the arm.

At the back the ribbon is arranged in a high bow with long ends, and the simple full skirt, that ends in three tucks at the foot, is embellished with rose wreaths cut from the silk and applied to the material.

An easier way to use the ribbon motifs on the skirt, and one nearly as effective, is to cut the material in diamond-shaped patches in graduated sizes, and apply these to the skirt in similar fashion.

High Decolletage

THE high decolletage, correct for girlish wear, is happily and simply accomplished in this model by drapings of the material. There are many ways of finishing the neck that are equally effective.

Shaped yokes delicately embroidered in floral designs are very pretty, and where a fichu effect is liked, gathered muslin ruches are suitable finishes becoming to slender figures.

Mothers who are giving anxious thought to the problem of having their girls dressed fittingly, with changes enough to keep them looking smart at the various functions for which they will have "bids," would do well to provide separate fitted slips of white, pink, blue, yellow or whatever colors accord best with the gowns to be worn.

If these slips are top-fy made and fitted with whatever boning is necessary to secure trim graceliness of line, the outer frock, however simple in material and make, will have an air that will make it, literally, even where very costly attire prevails.

TUMBLER CAKE

ONE tumbler sugar, one tumbler butter, one tumbler molasses, three tumblers flour, one-half tumbler milk, four eggs, one pound currants, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves, one nutmeg. Very nice. This will keep six months in a cool place. It is very nice to use for pudding with hard sauce or a warm sugar sauce. Any flavor you wish.

COLORING FOR GRAVY

ONE cup granulated sugar; put in frying pan with a little butter to make syrup, boil well and brown; then add one cup water. Mix well and it is then cold to be used as needed. Use one pint of gravy put in one tablespoonful or more if needed to make desired color. This is very nice; try it.

FEATHER CAKE

One and one-half cups sugar, three eggs, beaten very light; three-quarters cup butter, three-quarters cup sweet milk, three and one-half cups flour; lemon, vanilla or nutmeg flavoring to suit taste; rounded teaspoon of cream of tartar, one-half teaspoon soda. MRS. C. A. BRANNEN, Franklin, Maine.

THE NOSE

MAY make or mar any face. If homely it cannot be hidden. Its very prominence makes it of vital importance. No matter how badly deformed, it can be readily corrected.

Woman's Peculiar Notions of Beauty

SOME ladies in Japan gild their teeth, those of the ladies paint them red, and in Guzerat they are dyed black. In Greenland the women color their faces with blue and yellow. However fresh the complexion of a Muscovite may be, she would think herself very ugly if she was not plastered over with paint.

The Laplander must have their feet as diminutive as those of a gant, and to render them so these youth is passed in tortures.

In ancient Persia an aquiline nose was often thought worthy of the crown; and if there was any competition between two princes, the people generally went by this criterion of majesty.

In some countries the mothers break the noses of their children, and in others the head between two boards, that it may become flat. The modern Persians have a strong aversion to red hair; the Parks, on the contrary, are warm admirers of it.

In China small round eyes are liked, and the girls are continually plucking their eyebrows, that they may be thin and long.

The Turkish women dip a gold brush in the tincture of a black drug, which they pass over their eyebrows. It is too visible by day, but looks shining by night. They tinge their nails with a rose color.

An African beauty must have small eyes, thick lips, a large, flat nose and a skin beautifully black.

An ornament for the nose is considered by many as absolutely essential to beauty. The Peruvian women use a nose ring, the thickness of which is proportioned by the rank of their husbands. The custom of boring the nose is very common, and a variety of materials are hung through the perforations, such as green crystal, gold, silver, a single and sometimes a great many gold rings.

Ladies Box-Plaited Skirt

No. 5,362—Box-pleated effects in skirts are among the latest shown, and are exceedingly smart. Here is a design that is well suited for to this model, which is in ten gores. The pleats are stitched down to nine inch, thus giving a close fit about the hips. The lower edge flares decidedly, according to the prevailing fashion, which is illustrated in this model by a circular sweep, as the machine measures. Several materials are admirable, such as Mohair, Voile, Serge and Taffeta. The medium size will require six and seven-eighths yards of forty-four inch material.

COLLEGE GIRL ATHLETE GETS BERTH AT VASSAR

HELEN C. BABSON

MissHelen Babson of Gloucester, Champion High Jumper, Appointed as Assistant Principal.

GLOUCESTER, Nov. 23.—Miss Helen Corliss Babson of this city, holder of the world's record for women in the running high jump, to-day received an appointment as assistant principal of Vassar College at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Miss Babson graduated from Vassar in 1905. She made her world's record high jump at Vassar in 1904, clearing the bar at four feet two and one-half inches, or one inch more than the highest notch ever before reached by a woman athlete.

Won High Honors in Class.

Besides excelling in athletics during her college career, Miss Babson won high honors in her studies, achieving distinction by winning the prize for the class poem in two successive years. She is pretty and willsome, with a lithe, supple figure. Her success in class and on the field has completely upset the theories of the critics, who assert that too much devotion to college athletics interferes with scholastic advancement.

Miss Babson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fitz J. Babson of this city. She has just passed her twenty-fifth birthday, and is the youngest assistant principal ever chosen at Vassar. She is a graduate of the Gloucester High School, and her many friends and former classmates here are delighted over her success.

Before her entrance at Vassar, Miss Babson had won first rank in her studies here, securing several prizes for poetry and being elected president of her graduating class.

Fond of Boating and Swimming.

Although she had not attained special distinction for athletic prowess at that time, the young schoolgirl, in boating and swimming on the Annisquam River, was developing herself for future laurels.

It was not long after she arrived at the Poughkeepsie college that the Massachusetts schoolgirl began to forge ahead in gymnasium and class work. In the executive position at Vassar to which she has now been advanced, athletics, of course, have been left behind, but her friends predict further triumphs for her in her chosen life work.

LAKE BARGE SINKS SEVEN MEN DROWN

SANDUSKY, O., Nov. 23.—The barge Athens, which was being towed by the steamer Pratt Wednesday night when the towline broke, has sunk and the captain and six of the crew are thought to have been drowned.

ELECTRICIAN BREAKS SKULL.

WEST RUTLAND, Vt., Nov. 23.—"Dud" Fowler, an electrician, fell thirty feet, strapped to a pole, yesterday, fracturing his skull, and will probably die.

OFFERS TO HOSPITAL $500,000 BUILDING

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Isaac Guggenheim, of No. 765 Fifth avenue, has informed the directors of the Sydenham Hospital in East One Hundred and Sixteenth street that he will erect for the institution a $500,000 new building if the board will guarantee an annual income of $50,000 or $60,000.

SPECIAL CARS FOR BLACKS.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 23.—Special street cars for negroes were ordered by the City Council last night in order that blacks and whites might be separated.

POISONING WAS ACCIDENT

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 23.—The police now believe that the wholesale poisoning at the wedding of Miss Anna Fiherer Slatin and Samuel H. Hoodin Tuesday night, which resulted in the death of Max Odeanitz and illness of sixty of the guests, was accidental. District-Attorney Jesse E. Nelson of Pittsfield has, however, instructed Medical Examiner E. A. Bates and the police to make a thorough investigation in the interests of the pure food laws.

He said last night: "All danger of this kind should be checked if possible. If any one was criminally responsible for the serving or preparation of tainted meat, then he should be prosecuted."

JURY ACQUITS EDITOR OF LIBEL

Special to the Boston American.

TAUNTON, Nov. 23.—A jury has found Charles G. Wood, Editor of the New Bedford Sunday Times, not guilty of criminal libel. He was charged that Dr. James Owen, a member of the board of overseers of the poor, stole $166.26 from the city treasury. Owen's remarkable plea was that while he collected $166.26 for taking an inventory at the New Bedford almshouse, it was but a steal and he was aware that he had no right as an official of the city to sell his services to New Bedford. He returned the money.

HIGGINS MAKES REFORM PLEDGE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 23.—"I will drive Boss Brayton and Brayonism from the State capitol if it lies in my power to do so," said Democratic Governor-elect James H. Higgins of Rhode Island in an interview to-day.

"At least, I will make it so hot for Brayton and his democratic proteges that he will be glad to seek headquarters elsewhere. I will strongly urge reforms in the constitution at the earliest possible moment and urge upon the Legislature the enlarging of the Governor's power of appointment, and also the giving to him the power of veto. With a strong minority of democrats and independents in the Senate and House, I hope to be able to bring about many needed reforms."

ASKS U.S. PROBE OF SON'S DEATH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Mrs. Lucy Latham, mother of Robert Vance Freeman, the young man who contracted tuberculosis after having served in the famous "poison squad," under the direction of Dr. Wiley, and who died Monday night, will demand a congressional investigation of the circumstances leading to her son's last illness.

"The government cannot give me back my boy," said she, "but it can reimburse me for the money, all I had in the world, which I spent in trying to prolong his life."

CURZON SHARES LEITER ESTATE

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 23.—Through the arrival of Lord Curzon in Chicago, yesterday, details of the marriage settlement made in April, 1895, when he married Miss May Leiter, become known. Lady Curzon received the income from $1,750,000, invested in real estate and loans. A secret meeting was held in the Chicago City, attended by Lord Curzon, Robert T. Lincoln and Joseph Leiter, to arrange the settlement. Lord Curzon will receive only the income from his third of the $1,750,000, and upon his death his share will go to his children.

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, NOVEMBER 23, 1906

This Young Woman, of Course, Is Wrong

But If She MUST Spend Money She May as Well Buy Clothes as Anything

The foolish young woman who says she can't possibly dress on less than $50,000 a year, or some equally ridiculous sum, is, of course, entirely wrong.

But the fact that she has extravagant ideas in the matter of clothes need not, and will not, irritate women who are compelled to get along on less than a hundred dollars a year for their wardrobe.

If the fifty-thousand-dollar-a-year woman has a father who can afford to give her that sum for clothing, she would better spend it for that purpose than hoard it up, where it can do no possible good.

The flounces, and lingerie, and chiffon, and tulle, and other glories that make up her raiment MUST BE MADE FOR HER, and the making of them gives work to hundreds of other women and men, and puts into circulation the money of a rich man, who might keep it stored away if he had not a daughter who knew how to get it from him.

Naturally, sensible women do not envy this rich young woman's MIND.

The idea that clothes, and VERY EXPENSIVE CLOTHES, are absolutely necessary to happiness is not a comfortable idea to have. A woman possessed of it would be consumed with jealousy if she happened to see another woman with still more expensive clothes.

The constant thought that she gives to her wardrobe crowds out healthier and HAPPIER thoughts. She can have no real appreciation of BEAUTY, or she would know that it consists of SIMPLICITY, not gorgeous array. She will never be able to enjoy a home, unless it consists chiefly of closets filled with furbelows of all sorts. She will get very small enjoyment out of her life.

But as long as that is her mania her sisters should not envy her. It is natural for them to want to look well, and it is right that they SHOULD LOOK AS WELL AS THEY CAN AFFORD TO LOOK.

The woman who does not try to appear at her best—to garnish her own good looks with pretty clothes when she can—is exceedingly rare.

If you observe the women you pass on the street, you will see that the plainest and the oldest of them always have some little adornment added to their costumes, some bit of finery that is worn to satisfy their sense of beauty.

But it is the woman WHO KEEPS WITHIN HER OWN, OR HER FATHER'S, OR HER HUSBAND'S MEANS, and who has a fitting sense of proportion in dress, who is the most contented and who makes those about her the happiest.

The woman who fulfils the high mission of all women, which is to make the world better and more beautiful, devotes just as much time and attention to her costumes as are necessary to her own self-respect.

She thinks of her clothes as a part of every day, NOT ALL OF EVERY DAY.

She spends on them a part of the money she has to spend, NOT ALL OF IT.

And she speedily learns to recognize the fact that there are many things SHE CAN'T HAVE, and it doesn't destroy her peace of mind to get along without them.

The wives and daughters of very rich men may be viewed charitably in their extravagances, for they have very little else to do than to think of clothes, and to vie with each other in self-adornment.

The sacrifices they make for their clothes—the cramping of their bodies in ridiculous stays, and the CRAMPING OF THEIR MINDS by excluding the real good and beauty of the world from them—are their own losses, and other women are not called upon to share them.

The money they spend goes into circulation. Eventually some of the other women can share that.

So that, even with the longing for beautiful gowns and furs and suits and hats that is instinctive with all women, the theories of this particular rich girl will create neither envy nor unhappiness.

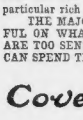
THE MAJORITY OF HER SISTERS MANAGE TO LOOK BEAUTIFUL ON WHATEVER SUMS THEY HAVE TO SPEND, AND THEY ARE TOO SENSIBLE TO CARE WHETHER OR NOT OTHER WOMEN CAN SPEND TEN THOUSAND TIMES AS MUCH.

Covetousness or Ambition---Which?

By Charles Fleischer

(RABBI TEMPLE ADATH ISRAEL)

"Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's property."



R. O'CONNELL, Coadjutor Archbishop of the Diocese of Boston, preached a powerful sermon last Sunday at the rededication of the Catholic Cathedral in Lowell, Mass.

In the course of his address he inveighed against socialism, which he characterized as a transgression of the biblical injunction against covetousness: "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's property."

On the same day John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who seems to be in the business of pious preaching on Sunday and that of more or less impious practice on other days, said to his Sunday school class: "Beware of prosperity, and thank God that you have hard work and a struggle before you."

The coincidence and the agreement of these two utterances—the one from the heart of a philosophic high ecclesiastic, the other from the mouth of a hard-headed lay preacher—are not without significance. Whatever else they may mean, they certainly tell plainly the survival of the belief that we are to have the poor always with us.

I cannot agree with the learned Archbishop that socialism is a sin (though it may be a mistaken economic theory), or even that it even implies covetousness in the socialist.

Certainly no one will accuse William Morris, the rich English socialist, poet and manufacturer, the most all-around man since Benvenuto Cellini of covering his neighbor's property. That is dismissing altogether too lightly these "dreamers," who are at least fired with the fervent desire so right the very evident wrongs of our present economic system.

If I may be pardoned for seeming, for the moment, to take young Mr. Rockefeller seriously, I shall pass by his curious cant that warns us against the dangers of prosperity, and challenge his request not only to accept poverty, but to "thank God that you have hard work and a struggle before you."

That attitude is characteristic of a certain class, who, being prosperous, see no reason for changing existing conditions. They are quite satisfied to continue to believe that poverty is an incurable social disease.

Perhaps they are, in pious moments, even willing to admit that you are suffering from it through no fault of yours, but as the result of a "divine dispensation," and that you are simply privileged to be a proof of the permanence of poverty.

Now, it is plain that, under a competitive system (especially under a system so little restricted as the present one), some men, by native talent, are bound to win out, and others, by native weakness, are equally bound to fail. From the ranks of the former the rich are recruited; from the ranks of the latter the poor.

In that sense, we are likely to have poverty always with us. And this is one reason that socialists wish to abolish the unthinkable competitive system, not because they covet the rich, but because they pity the poor.

At any rate, it does not seem to be good social policy, especially in a democratic land, to discourage the ambition of the poor, or to ask them to be satisfied with their state. Especially, it seems the height of folly for a multi-millionaire to bid us "beware of prosperity and thank God that you have hard work and a struggle before you."

Rather I would encourage the restlessness that betokens a sublime discontent with one's lowly lot, and promotes not covetousness, but ambitious determination to win, through earnest effort, a higher place in the social scale.

And even without being socialists, we should all be interested not merely in the betterment of the conditions of life for all men, but, still more, in such improvement of our economic system that richer returns may come to the toiler as his rightful share of the common wealth produced by the co-operation of capital and labor.

A Thanksgiving Breakfast Serial

By Wex Jones

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Hiram Hickman is dragged from his simple farmyard farm by a passing balloon, from which he is dropped by the aeronauts. He saves his life by clutching the left leg of a sparrow as he falls.

CHAPTER III.

HAVING presented the sparrow with three crumbs as a reward for saving his life, Hiram looked around him.

He was near a large farmhouse, and from the sounds which came through the open window he concluded that the owner was beating his wife. In one of the fields a man was shooting rabbits. On the road a motorist was running over a pig.

"Ah!" said Hiram. "I'm still within the borders of civilization."

On discovering a sign boosting applejack, Hiram was able to get a still more accurate idea of his whereabouts. Greatly cheered that he was not in Morocco or some other country where the illiterate foreigners did not speak English, Hiram advanced toward the farmhouse.

Then he paused.

A large dog was looking at him in a decidedly inquisitive way.

"Nice doggie," said Hiram.

Not a word said the dog.

"I only want to knock at the door," said Hiram.

Not a word in reply.

Hiram advanced a foot. The dog gripped him by the ankle.

Hiram yelled.

A woman came to the door. "What's the matter with you?" she asked.

"The dog!" The dog!" gasped Hiram.

"Never mind him," said the woman, "he won't hurt you."

"Won't hurt me!" shouted Hiram, "he's got me by the leg!"

"Well, well; that's only in play," said the woman. "After a while he'll let you go."

"Oh, he will, will he?" remarked Hiram between groans. "I thought he was going through life with me—like a Siamese twin."

"All right," answered the woman, "come in and make yourself at home when Carlo lets go."

Two hours later Hiram entered the kitchen of the house, closely followed by Carlo.

"See, Carlo likes you now," said the woman who had invited Hiram within. "He's following you about like an old friend."

"Like an old friend, nothing," responded Hiram, with some heat. "He's following me around until he gets hungry again."

"But I'll fix him," he added, picking up a pumpkin pie and quickly twisting it into a lasso.

As he swirled the lariat around his head there was a terrific explosion.

MR. E. Z. MARK BITES ONCE AGAIN

1. SAD-EYED STRANGER—I am sorry Mrs. Mark is not at home. Well; Mrs. Mark, in the voting contest for the most popular lady in our church, has won the prize—a thousand-dollar silver service. I hereby deliver it to you, Mr. Mark, with my heartiest congratulations.

2. SAD-EYED STRANGER — It was agreed that the winner would give two hundred dollars to our charity fund. I am sorry Mrs. Mark is not at home, but I can call again.

MR. E. Z.—No need of that, sir; here are two hundred dollars; I will pay the money for Mrs. Mark.

3. MR. E. Z. (on Mrs. Mark's return)—Hooray! Hooray! Mary, you are a peach! The most popular woman in the church! You won the prize. Open it and let me have a look at it.

MRS. MARK—E. Z., have you lost your senses? Won what prize? I'll have to look into this.

4. MRS. MARK—Just as I thought; nothing but a lot of scrap iron. And you paid him two hundred dollars for charity! There was no contest at the church. E. Z., you've been done again, THAT'S ALL.

To an Astrologer

Ella Wheeler Wilcox

NAY, seer, I do not doubt thy mystic lore,
Nor question that the tenor of thy life,
Past, present and the future, is revealed
There in thy horoscope. I do not believe
That you dead moon compels the haughty seas
To ebb and flow, and that my natal star
Stands like a stern-browed sentinel in space
And challenges events: nor less one grief,
Or joy, or failure, or success, pass on
To marvel or bless my earthly lot, until
It proves its Karmic right to come to me.

All this I grant, but more than this I know!
Before the solar systems were conceived,
When nothing was but the unnamable,
My spirit lived, an atom of the Cause,
Through countless ages and in many forms
It has existed, ere it entered in
This human frame to serve its little day
Upon this earth. The deathless Me of me,
The spark from that great all-creative fire
Is part of that eternal source called God.
And mightier than the universe.

Why, he
Who knows, and knowing, never once forgets
The pedigree divine of his own soul,
Can conquer, shape and govern destiny,
And use vast space as 'twere a board of chess,
With stars for pawns; can change his horoscope
To suit his will, turn failure to success,
And from prordained sorrows harvest joy.

There is no puny planet, sun or moon,
Or zodiacal sign which can control
The God in us! If we bring that to bear
Upon events, we mould them to our wish:
'Tis when the infinite 'neath the finite gropes
That men are governed by their horoscopes.

How the Old South Church Was Built

By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory

BY the time of the death of Charles II., says John Fiske, it was reckoned that four-fifths of the adult males in Massachusetts were disfranchised because of inability to participate in the Lord's Supper.

If a Pharisee of the time when Pharisaism was in the bloom of its bigotry and unreason could have been set down in the Boston of the year A. D. 1660 he would probably have felt the theocracy of old Jerusalem was a tame affair in comparison with that of the New England town.

The Winthrops, Cottons and Davenports had everything their own way, and those who were not willing to bow down to them as the representatives of God on earth had no political rights or social standing.

Many of the disfranchised, tired of being nobodies, struck out through the wilderness and founded other states. Some went to Rhode Island, as did others to Connecticut and elsewhere, but others still remained at home, biding their time, waiting for the opportunity when they might be able to win, upon the soil of the old Commonwealth, the rights which belonged to them.

Somewhere around the year 1650 a compromise was reached between the reared the present celebrated structure, "a building," as Fiske well relarger and more democratic element, and that led "upright and any other on the American continent, "Inn" and the "Outs," by which the latter, or such of them as had been marks, "with a grander history than decorous lives," were admitted to the unless it be that other plain brick church and to full political rights, building in Philadelphia where the though not to a first-class religious Declaration of Independence was standing. adopted and the Federal Constitution

Such was the so-called "Halfway framed."

Covenant," one of the most illogical and inconsistent conventions ever drawn up.

As might have been expected, the "Halfway Covenant" led to the bitterest controversy between the ministers and congregations, some taking one side and some the other.

It was about the year 1668, and the First Church of Boston was looking for a minister. The members let it be understood that they were not opposed to the "Halfway Covenant," and as a mark of the stalwart character of their religion called to the pastorate of the church the Rev. John Davenport of New Haven, a theocrat of extreme type.

The calling of Mr. Davenport was the beginning of organized liberalism in Massachusetts. The advocates of the "Halfway Covenant" seceded from the First Church and formed themselves into a society which they called the "Third Church in Boston."

Their meeting house became known as the "South Church," and from that part of the city in which it was located.

Later on another church in the neighborhood took the name of the "New South," whereupon the church of the seceders began to be called the "Old South."

In 1729, upon the sight of the old meeting house erected in 1669, was
